Mayor May Bid Anew For Landfill Action

OSCAR NOMINEES—Marlon Brando, left, and Grace Kelly are two of the favorites in the running for acting awards to be made by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in Hollywood tonight. Miss Kelly was nominated for best-actress award for her performance in "The Country Girl"; Brando as best actor for his performance in "On The Waterfront." Academy Awards Seen As Going to Longshots

Hollywood, March 30 (AP)—Hollywood's smart money talked longshot today as even the experts differed violently as to who would win tonight's Academy awards.

Crosby or Brando? Garland or Kelly? "The Country Girl?" or "On the Waterfront?" with those favorites, it was even money and take your choice.

The choices are determined by secret vote of the 1,600 members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Results will be announced at the annual Oscar ceremonies tonight.

Only Edmond O'Brien, up for a supporting role in "The Barefoot Contessa," could make the experts agree.

The closest finish in years raised the perennial possibility that the Oscar favorites might knock each other off.

HUMPHREY BOGART, Dorothy Dandridge and the musical "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" thus rated better than an outside chance they would be heard from before the night is over.

Hollywood's international element saw a win for Miss Dandridge, first Negro ever nominated for a top Oscar, enhancing United States prestige abroad.

So closely contested was this year's race that even such famous stay-at-homes as Marlon Brando and Bing Crosby did everything but ring doorbells for votes.

In Brando's favor is the fact that the Academy can't go on much longer ignoring the man many regard as the greatest living actor. But then John Barrymore never won an Oscar, either.

Crosby, who has made millions playing Crosby on the screen, decided on playing someone else in "The Country Girl." Add such a performance to Crosby's vast personal popularity and he becomes a hard man to beat.

Brando, until this year personally unpopular in Hollywood, decided to go out and meet the people this year. He picked up

Tight Minutes Reported by Crew

Groton, Conn., March 30 (AP)—The crew of the Nautilus suffered an "agonizing" few minutes when trouble which later proved minor grumbled a warning as the atomic submarine backed away from her dock on her first trial.

This and other incidents in the now completed builders' trials of the Nautilus were related today by Comdr. Eugene P. Wilkinson, the Nautilus' skipper; Lt. Dean L. Axene, executive officer; and others of the crew in a news conference.

Wilkinson said that the performance of the huge underseas boat and nuclear power plant have proved amazing.

BUT HE ALSO disclosed the moments of worry when "bugs" common to any new craft appeared while "the eyes of the world were upon us."

The difficulties, all quickly corrected, were these:

1. Two small fires in electrical panels on the first dive.

2. A loose screw on the casing of a reduction gear box on the port propeller shaft which startled the crew as the submarine moved out from her dock Jan. 17—and which compelled maneuvering the boat on one of the twin propellers until the trouble was discovered and fixed.

3. A lashing storm with 12-foot waves and winds up to 30 knots—which stove in a plate on the outside sheathing of the conning tower structure and ripped up some deck planking but did no damage to the pressure hull of the boat.

IN THIS STORM, during one of her trial runs at sea, the Nautilus rolled as much as 27 degrees while surfaced. Some personnel, including some of the ship's company, Wilkinson said with a grin, were "quite green at times."

The skipper said, in answer to questions, there has been no dangerous radiation from the submarine's atomic fire box at any time.

He explained that the Atomic Energy Commission has a table worked out which shows that a person can absorb as much as 300 units of radiation steadily without resulting in any reduction of life expectancy or other dangers.

In the case of the Nautilus, the average per week per man has been only about 5 units with the highest for any crewman only 45 units—"well under tolerance," he said.

ONLY ONCE did news conference questioning turn to questioning about an article Wilkinson has written for a national magazine and which has prompted a study by the Defense Department looking toward probably issuance of an order banning such writing.

A reporter asked Wilkinson if there was any data on the performance contained in his article.

Wilkinson answered that "to the best of my knowledge there is no performance data." He added that there was mention of firing dummy torpedoes in practice which already has been announced officially by the navy.

IT WAS AXENE, the executive officer, who mentioned the "agonizing few minutes right after we got underway" in the first test.

Wilkinson explained that the boat was backing down from the fitting out pier when an engineer officer "reported a rub-

Troops in Control Of Saigon Spots

Saigon, South Viet Nam, March 30 (AP)—National troops were concentrated at vital points throughout Saigon today after beating back an attempt by a private army to oust American - supported Premier Ngo Dinh Diem by force.

Twenty-six persons were reported killed and 112 wounded in the fighting which raged for more than four hours early this morning. French sources gave this breakdown—National Army and police, 6 dead, 34 wounded; Binh Xuyen, 10 dead, 20 wounded; civilians, 10 dead, 58 wounded.

None of the nearly 1,000 members of the U. S. diplomatic, military and economic missions here was injured.

EXCEPT FOR the troop concentrations and a few roadblocks, there was little evidence of the battle which broke out shortly after midnight between the private army of the Binh Xuyen Society of former river pirates and National units.

Traffic mover normally over the boulevard Gallieni, the main artery between Saigon and its Chinese section of Cholon. The hottest fighting occurred around this thoroughfare. All major public utilities were functioning as usual — under French and Vietnamese military guard.

President Eisenhower's special ambassador, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, conferred with Gen. Paul Ely, French commissioner general to South Viet Nam, on emergency measures to protect the foreign residents of Saigon in case of further trouble.

THE TWO GENERALS prepared to call on Diem at his "Independence Palace" to discuss the situation and to offer the premier their help in stemming the civil strife.

Heavily reinforced army units stood guard around the palace, a massive three-story building. The government said the green-bereted Binh Xuyen troops began their attack by shelling the palace compound and the botanical gardens, where two battalions of paratroopers were bivouacked.

Five mortar shells fell in the palace garden but the building was not hit. Diem, who was inside, was unhurt.

Two other actions were reported: A battle at the prefectural police headquarters and a diversionary Binh Xuyen attack on the national army headquarters. In both the private soldiers were beaten off and driven back to an area their forces hold between Saigon and Cholon.

GOVERNMENT TROOPS made no attempt to disclose the Binh Xuyen from the headquarters of the Surete Nationale, the Penitentiary Revolt Ends With Hostages Unharmed

Lincoln, Neb., March 30 (AP)—A 65-hour prisoner revolt at Nebraska's State Penitentiary ended early today when eight rebel convicts released three unharmed hostages and then surrendered themselves.

Since Sunday forenoon, the convicts and hostages, including two captured guards, had been barricaded inside the square, three story maximum security building or prison "jail" on the penitentiary grounds.

SURRENDER ON TERMS laid down by Gov. Victor E. Anderson came after personal interviews during the night with four of the rebels.

At 3:15 a. m. (CST) the two guards and an inmate who had been a prisoner of the prisoners walked out of the building's lone exit into the glare of floodlights that have bathed it for three nights. Thirteen minutes later the subdued convicts began trooping out, one at a time.

All got hot meals—their first since Sunday breakfast.

The guards, Eugene Swanson, 34, and Warren B. Miller, 43, told newsmen they were well treated by the insurgents, who were armed with knives and pipes.

A MEAGER SUPPLY of bread and sugar was shared with scrupulous fairness among captors and captives alike, they said.

Miller, jovial despite the ordeal, said he "got the knee in the back two or three times" for displeasing the convicts but beyond that there had been no violence.

"Everytime I talked to anyone on the phone (an inter-com linking the building with the warden's office) they kept a knife at my throat as a threat," Miller related.

Gov. Anderson, virtually sleepless since Sunday when he assumed personal command of the situation, prescribed 15 days in the "hole" with two meals a day, plus 60 days in solitary confinement with three meals a day for the insurgent convicts."

THE "HOLE" is the name given to the first floor of the maximum security building. The Food Prices Are At New Low

New York, March 30 (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet Index declined this week to the lowest level since November, 1953.

The index registered $6.52, down from $6.55 a week ago and 12.1 per cent under the $7.42 recorded in the same week a year ago. On Nov. 17, 1953, the figure was $6.51.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Foods declining this week included wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, milk, coffee, cocoa, eggs, potatoes, steers and lambs. Higher were flour, beef, lard, sugar, cottonseed oil, peanuts, currants, rice and hogs.

Hua Awaits Red Blow; Date Vague

Action Seems Like Trouble, He Says

Matsu Island, March 30 (AP)—The commander of the Chinese Nationalist garrison on this far edge of the free world expects the Communists to attack at any time but will not commit himself to a date.

Col. Hua told visiting newsmen today "it looks as though they intend to come pretty soon, maybe tomorrow maybe next week—or it might be next year—you can't tell."

Hua (the censor would not permit use of his full name), a tough 36-year-old Shansi fighter, says Red activity on the coast nine miles away from this bleak crag smells like trouble. The Reds are busier than they have ever been. Hua said he had no idea which of the seven islands under his command the Reds might choose to attack but he said his forces (estimated at 11,000) are ready all along the island chain.

THIS SIX SQUARE MILES of more or less perpendicular granite—whose defense is involved in American foreign policy—seemed remote indeed from America on this warm misty day but it is full of things American. Its soldiers have American gear and guns, vehicles and tractors and on the island is a handful of American army men from the military assistance advisory group in Formosa.

My visit to Matsu, largest island of the seven, left me with two strong opinions about these endangered spots of the free world:

1. That Matsu itself is strongly defended and would be hard to take but it is vulnerable like the Tachens were vulnerable to flanking action.

2. The Reds may not be able to take Matsu but the lesser islands of Kaoteng or Peikantang seem less strong and their loss would put Matsu under artillery fire, making it hard to hold and even harder to supply.

COL HUA SAYS he will reinforce one island from another and will thus throw his full force wherever the attack comes. But when I stood atop a windy peak and scanned the sea, the other islands and the awful nearness of the Red mainland I couldn't help wondering whether such interisland reinforcing could succeed. Again the old provisional remark comes in—if America helps. But nobody knows whether America intends to help defend Matsu.

Matsu is an incredible crag pro-

War Speculation Viewed as Bad

Washington, March 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower spoke out today against too much speculation and talk about war. He said it doesn't serve the cause of peace.

Eisenhower also said at a news conference that he has no information indicating the Chinese Reds plan to launch an attack soon on the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS carried an implied rebuke to Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations. Carney has been identified as the source of a prediction, given to newsmen last week, that the Communists would start striking at Quemoy and the Matsus around April 15.

Asked specifically if Carney would be reprimanded, Eisenhower said not by him.

Eisenhower said he himself was not ruling out the possibility of an attack in mid-April. But, he said, if anyone has information pointing clearly to such an attack, that person must have more information than the President of the United States.

AT THE OUTSET of the news conference, a reporter told Eisenhower that Carney has been quoted as saying the Communists might attack Quemoy and Matsu next month. The newsman went on to say he understood the President felt otherwise and didn't like Carney's expressing the view which he did.

Eisenhower replied that no one possesses a crystal ball to determine the chances for war. He said that for anyone to prophesy when war might break out is to assume an accuracy of information which never yet has been attained.

EISENHOWER SAID if he were going to make any comment on the situation it would be to say he does not believe the peace of the world would be served by talking too much in terms of war.

Under other questioning, Eisenhower again declined to shed any light on whether the United States might go to the defense of the two Nationalist offshore islands if the Reds do attack them.

Official U. S. policy, as expressed in a resolution passed by Congress earlier this year, gives the President authority to take whatever steps are necessary for defense of the main Nation-

Security Council Seeks Peace Plans

United Nations, March 30 (AP)—Having condemned Israel for the Gaza attack last month, the UN Security Council turned today to discussion of ways to pacify the explosive Israeli-Egyptian frontier.

Up for debate in today's meeting (3 p. m.) of the 11-nation council was a western-sponsored resolution asking both countries to cooperate with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, UN truce chief in Palestine, on steps to stop border-crossing.

BY UNANIMOUS VOTE, the council adopted another western-backed resolution last night holding Israel guilty of a prearranged Army attack Feb. 28 on Egyptian forces in the Gaza strip Egypt occupies. Thirty-eight Egyptians and eight Israels were killed in the battle.

The resolution condemned the attack as a violation of the UN charter, the council's 1948 Palestine cease-fire order and the 1949 Egypt-Israeli Armistice agreement. It also called on Israel for "all necessary measures to prevent such actions" and said both sides should observe the armistice pact.

THE WESTERN PROPOSAL got unusually speedy treatment, being approved at the same meeting at which it was introduced. Russia joined in the vote in its favor. The resolution was sponsored by Britain, the United States and France.

Halt Urged On 4 Roads In New York

Would Have Final Program Ruling

Albany, March 30 (AP)—The State Thruway Authority today urged that development of four proposed cross-state highways as toll roads be deferred at least pending final determination of present state and federal highway programs.

The authority's findings were disclosed in a special report on studies of the possibility of building the toll highways.

They would run from the Binghamton-Elmira area to the St. Lawrence river, from the Albany viciinity to the Canadian border, from Harriman through the southern tier and New York city eastward on Long Island.

THE AUTHORITY SAID, however, that certain sections of the four proposed routes would be adaptable to toll-highway construction.

And it stated that studies of a Long Island expressway showed "indication of a high revenue potential."

Nevertheless, the authority said, "further and more detailed studies would be required before final determination can be made" on the toll development of the proposed expressways.

Until plans are firmed up for a 750-million-dollar state road building program, which will go before the voters next fall, and until it is clear how much New York state will get in federal funds under President Eisenhower's highway program, the authority said:

". . . We recommend that further studies of the feasibility of these routes as self-liquidating toll facilities be deferred."

THE AUTHORITY'S FINDINGS with respect to a proposed north-south superhighway from the Pennsylvania line to the St. Lawrence river appeared to pave the way for building the highway along Route 11, as a non-toll facility.

A public works department spokesman said earlier this month that if the thruway authority found the highway un-

Committee Withholds Its Report

Common Council Takes No Action

City refuse disposal was still an administration problem today through lack of Common Council action last night on a landfill proposal for the Kingston Point area.

Only a new plan will be considered, the aldermen hinted, after the fifth ward proposal died in committee at the third recessed meeting, but Mayor Frederick H. Stang indicated today he might bid for reconsideration at the council's regular session Tuesday.

EXTENDED ARGUMENT on the plan, as first presented, ended when Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms, (R.) chairman of the finance committee announced:

"The finance committee does not feel it can report on the fifth ward proposition in its present form as submitted by the Board of Public Works."

This came after a recess of more than two hours and stirred murmurs of disappointment among the crowd of about 130, mostly fifth ward residents, who apparently considered the committe report only another delay in deciding on the proposal.

OTHER PROPOSALS, such as the purchase of 46 acres of land in the town of Ulster, it was learned, were discussed in committee and among the aldermen in general, and some felt that a substitute plan could be presented soon.

It was indicated at one time during the committee recess that sentiment in the council added up to being one vote shy of the two-thirds needed on the proposal to raise money for the project.

THE SITUATION was about the same March 15 when Alderman Robert C. Cullum, (R) 12th ward, was absent, and Democratic aldermen, for the first time indicated they were in favor of the project.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, and William K. Bodenweber, ninth ward, both Democrats indicated opposition to the project last week as did Republican Hirschell Mayes, first ward.

The score, as once reported during recess last night, would have indicated that two Republicans, Samuel J. Perry, (R) fifth ward, chief opponent of the plan, and Mayes, were against it, and apparently Cole and James K. Ryan, 10th ward, were the only Democrats who might have voted for it, if it were brought to a vote.

A member of the finance committee said after last night's meeting ended that the committee's report meant in effect that a "different proposition" will have to be presented, and that the committee would not go along with the plan as originally offered.

MAYOR STANG SAID TODAY that he was disappointed that the proposal was "not disposed of last night. I am of a firm opinion that it is a good thing to do."

The mayor said he still felt that if the proposal could be discussed "dispassionately, quietly and reasonably," that it could be worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned. He was thinking, he said, of the general welfare of the city.

"If there is still some question as to the sewer problem in the area," he said, "we are ready and willing to discuss this problem." They are two separate projects, he said, but if there was a question of harmful results from the landfill, both problems could be solved jointly and satisfactorily.

"DELAYS ON THIS MATTER," the mayor advised, "means more money will have to be spent in the Wilbur avenue dumping area. And when that is finished, the city will have a serious problem to face unless something is done in time."

The mayor said he was reluctant to see an "opportunity thrown away," to reclaim a wasteland and solve the city's refuse-disposal problem, and he felt the opportunity to get the land later may be lost.

Alderman Perry, who March 15 charged that the city was more than $100,000 short of estimating the cost of the project, in another statement last night, said he did not want the "garbage of 30,000 people dumped" in his ward.

Perry said he was not opposed to landfill, "but there are con-

Six Prison Guards Declare Inmates Are in Terror

Boston, March 30 (AP)—Authorities today were investigating charges that liquor is manufactured at the Massachusetts state prison, that organized gambling flourishes there and that hundreds of inmates live in terror of a group of desperate convicts.

The charges were made yesterday by six state prison guards, who asked that their names be withheld for their own safety.

They said the group of desperadoes has virtually taken over control of the ancient prison where five guards were held hostage for 84 hours by four inmates last January.

Expressing their views at a news conference called by the AFL State, County and Municipal Employes Union, the guards said:

"The inmates got away with the last uprising and they know they're the bosses. They'll kill the next time. Up until now they've gotten away with everything but murder and haven't been punished."

They said the lives of guards are endangered daily because the four rebellious prisoners were not punished for their desperate, but futile attempt to break out.

A grand jury returned no indictments in the matter after Superior Court Judge Paul G. Kirk asserted that "no good" would be accomplished by trying the convicts who already are under long sentences.

The guards said the seven-man citizens' committee which brought about the convicts' sur-

1. That Matsu itself is strongly defended and would be hard to take but it is vulnerable like the Tachens were vulnerable to flanking action.

2. The Reds may not be able to take Matsu but the lesser islands of Kaoteng or Peikantang seem less strong and their loss would put Matsu under artillery fire, making it hard to hold and even harder to supply.

COL HUA SAYS he will reinforce one island from another and will thus throw his full force wherever the attack comes. But when I stood atop a windy peak and scanned the sea, the other islands and the awful nearness of the Red mainland I couldn't help wondering whether such interisland reinforcing could succeed. Again the old provisional remark comes in—if America helps. But nobody knows whether America intends to help defend Matsu.

Matsu is an incredible crag pro-

War Speculation Viewed as Bad

Washington, March 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower spoke out today against too much speculation and talk about war. He said it doesn't serve the cause of peace.

Eisenhower also said at a news conference that he has no information indicating the Chinese Reds plan to launch an attack soon on the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

THE PRESIDENT'S REMARKS carried an implied rebuke to Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations. Carney has been identified as the source of a prediction, given to newsmen last week, that the Communists would start striking at Quemoy and the Matsus around April 15.

Asked specifically if Carney would be reprimanded, Eisenhower said not by him.

Eisenhower said he himself was not ruling out the possibility of an attack in mid-April. But, he said, if anyone has information pointing clearly to such an attack, that person must have more information than the President of the United States.

AT THE OUTSET of the news conference, a reporter told Eisenhower that Carney has been quoted as saying the Communists might attack Quemoy and Matsu next month. The newsman went on to say he understood the President felt otherwise and didn't like Carney's expressing the view which he did.

Eisenhower replied that no one possesses a crystal ball to determine the chances for war. He said that for anyone to prophesy when war might break out is to assume an accuracy of information which never yet has been attained.

EISENHOWER SAID if he were going to make any comment on the situation it would be to say he does not believe the peace of the world would be served by talking too much in terms of war.

Under other questioning, Eisenhower again declined to shed any light on whether the United States might go to the defense of the two Nationalist offshore islands if the Reds do attack them.

Official U. S. policy, as expressed in a resolution passed by Congress earlier this year, gives the President authority to take whatever steps are necessary for defense of the main Nation-

Security Council Seeks Peace Plans

United Nations, March 30 (AP)—Having condemned Israel for the Gaza attack last month, the UN Security Council turned today to discussion of ways to pacify the explosive Israeli-Egyptian frontier.

Up for debate in today's meeting (3 p. m.) of the 11-nation council was a western-sponsored resolution asking both countries to cooperate with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, UN truce chief in Palestine, on steps to stop border-crossing.

BY UNANIMOUS VOTE, the council adopted another western-backed resolution last night holding Israel guilty of a prearranged Army attack Feb. 28 on Egyptian forces in the Gaza strip Egypt occupies. Thirty-eight Egyptians and eight Israels were killed in the battle.

The resolution condemned the attack as a violation of the UN charter, the council's 1948 Palestine cease-fire order and the 1949 Egypt-Israeli Armistice agreement. It also called on Israel for "all necessary measures to prevent such actions" and said both sides should observe the armistice pact.

THE WESTERN PROPOSAL got unusually speedy treatment, being approved at the same meeting at which it was introduced. Russia joined in the vote in its favor. The resolution was sponsored by Britain, the United States and France.

Halt Urged On 4 Roads In New York

Would Have Final Program Ruling

Albany, March 30 (AP)—The State Thruway Authority today urged that development of four proposed cross-state highways as toll roads be deferred at least pending final determination of present state and federal highway programs.

The authority's findings were disclosed in a special report on studies of the possibility of building the toll highways.

They would run from the Binghamton-Elmira area to the St. Lawrence river, from the Albany vicinity to the Canadian border, from Harriman through the southern tier and New York city eastward on Long Island.

THE AUTHORITY SAID, however, that certain sections of the four proposed routes would be adaptable to toll-highway construction.

And it stated that studies of a Long Island expressway showed "indication of a high revenue potential."

Nevertheless, the authority said, "further and more detailed studies would be required before final determination can be made" on the toll development of the proposed expressways.

Until plans are firmed up for a 750-million-dollar state road building program, which will go before the voters next fall, and until it is clear how much New York state will get in federal funds under President Eisenhower's highway program, the authority said:

". . . We recommend that further studies of the feasibility of these routes as self-liquidating toll facilities be deferred."

THE AUTHORITY'S FINDINGS with respect to a proposed north-south superhighway from the Pennsylvania line to the St. Lawrence river appeared to pave the way for building the highway along Route 11, as a non-toll facility.

A public works department spokesman said earlier this month that if the thruway authority found the highway un-

Committee Withholds Its Report

Common Council Takes No Action

City refuse disposal was still an administration problem today through lack of Common Council action last night on a landfill proposal for the Kingston Point area.

Only a new plan will be considered, the aldermen hinted, after the fifth ward proposal died in committee at the third recessed meeting, but Mayor Frederick H. Stang indicated today he might bid for reconsideration at the council's regular session Tuesday.

EXTENDED ARGUMENT on the plan, as first presented, ended when Second Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms, (R.) chairman of the finance committee announced:

"The finance committee does not feel it can report on the fifth ward proposition in its present form as submitted by the Board of Public Works."

This came after a recess of more than two hours and stirred murmurs of disappointment among the crowd of about 130, mostly fifth ward residents, who apparently considered the committe report only another delay in deciding on the proposal.

OTHER PROPOSALS, such as the purchase of 46 acres of land in the town of Ulster, it was learned, were discussed in committee and among the aldermen in general, and some felt that a substitute plan could be presented soon.

It was indicated at one time during the committee recess that sentiment in the council added up to being one vote shy of the two-thirds needed on the proposal to raise money for the project.

THE SITUATION was about the same March 15 when Alderman Robert C. Cullum, (R) 12th ward, was absent, and Democratic aldermen, for the first time indicated they were in favor of the project.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, and William K. Bodenweber, ninth ward, both Democrats indicated opposition to the project last week as did Republican Hirschell Mayes, first ward.

The score, as once reported during recess last night, would have indicated that two Republicans, Samuel J. Perry, (R) fifth ward, chief opponent of the plan, and Mayes, were against it, and apparently Cole and James K. Ryan, 10th ward, were the only Democrats who might have voted for it, if it were brought to a vote.

A member of the finance committee said after last night's meeting ended that the committee's report meant in effect that a "different proposition" will have to be presented, and that the committee would not go along with the plan as originally offered.

MAYOR STANG SAID TODAY that he was disappointed that the proposal was "not disposed of last night. I am of a firm opinion that it is a good thing to do."

The mayor said he still felt that if the proposal could be discussed "dispassionately, quietly and reasonably," that it could be worked out to the satisfaction of all concerned. He was thinking, he said, of the general welfare of the city.

"If there is still some question as to the sewer problem in the area," he said, "we are ready and willing to discuss this problem." They are two separate projects, he said, but if there was a question of harmful results from the landfill, both problems could be solved jointly and satisfactorily.

"DELAYS ON THIS MATTER," the mayor advised, "means more money will have to be spent in the Wilbur avenue dumping area. And when that is finished, the city will have a serious problem to face unless something is done in time."

The mayor said he was reluctant to see an "opportunity thrown away," to reclaim a wasteland and solve the city's refuse-disposal problem, and he felt the opportunity to get the land later may be lost.

Alderman Perry, who March 15 charged that the city was more than $100,000 short of estimating the cost of the project, in another statement last night, said he did not want the "garbage of 30,000 people dumped" in his ward.

Perry said he was not opposed to landfill, "but there are con-

Six Prison Guards Declare Inmates Are in Terror

Boston, March 30 (AP)—Authorities today were investigating charges that liquor is manufactured at the Massachusetts state prison, that organized gambling flourishes there and that hundreds of inmates live in terror of a group of desperate convicts.

The charges were made yesterday by six state prison guards, who asked that their names be withheld for their own safety.

They said the group of desperadoes has virtually taken over control of the ancient prison where five guards were held hostage for 84 hours by four inmates last January.

Expressing their views at a news conference called by the AFL State, County and Municipal Employes Union, the guards said:

"The inmates got away with the last uprising and they know they're the bosses. They'll kill the next time. Up until now they've gotten away with everything but murder and haven't been punished."

They said the lives of guards are endangered daily because the four rebellious prisoners were not punished for their desperate, but futile attempt to break out.

A grand jury returned no indictments in the matter after Superior Court Judge Paul G. Kirk asserted that "no good" would be accomplished by trying the convicts who already are under long sentences.

The guards said the seven-man citizens' committee which brought about the convicts' sur-

The Atomic Future: 2

(Turning the atom to private use is a highly complex problem — involving lots of money, national security and, at this stage, not much know-how. American industry can solve these problems, as it has others. But here are some reasons why it will take time).

By REMLAM MORIN

Washington, March 30 (AP) — Building the atomic bomb was a ferociously complicated process.

But it is beginning to seem like child's play compared to the problems of bringing atomic energy to ordinary peaceful uses. The atom waits—so near and yet so far—a taunt and a challenge to private industry.

Take electric power as the object example.

For many reasons, this may be the first great field where the atom goes to work. American power consumption tends to double every 10 years. The economy demands more and more electricity.

TECHNICALLY, you could have atom-generated electricity in your home today. Engineers know how to hook a nuclear reactor to a generator and take off electric power.

Then why not do it immediately?

Suppose you are the president of a big electric power company. The board of directors is in session One of them asks you that question: "Why not do it now?"

President: "The simple fact is, gentlemen, that as of today, atomic-generated electricity is just too expensive. It isn't yet competitive, in cost, with ordinary power."

Director: "How big is in the difference in cost?"

1. "Pretty big. Power rates vary all over the United States. On the average, however, I'd say that with present techniques, atom-electricity would be at least twice as costly. That's only an estimate."

Q. "You keep mentioning the situation today. Does this imply that new techniques will cut costs sharply tomorrow?"

A. "LET'S TAKE just one big phase of the problem. Nobody yet knows how to transmute atomic energy directly into electricity. You still need turbines, generators and all the conventional equipment.. The nuclear reactor merely takes the place of one part of the machine. Now suppose a method is found to convert atomic energy into electric power without those intermediate steps? Then, no doubt, atomic electricity would be more than competitive with the processes we are using now."

1. "Apart from that, what will it cost to build a nuclear reactor? How long will it take?"

A. "Between 40 and 50 million dollars, and four to five years. It depends on the size of the reactor."

Q. "So if we started today, it would be around 1960 before we had any atom-electricity?"

A. "That's right. And you've touched on another part of the problem. We decide to build a reactor and it's about half-finished when somebody comes along with a new design, more efficient, lower operating costs, and so on. In a technical field moving ahead as rapidly as atomic energy, that can easily happen. In other words, our reactor could be obsolete before it ever turned out a kilowatt."

Q. "YOU MENTIONED operating costs. What about them?"

A. "That's an uncharted sea. No private industry has operated a reactor. So we just don't know much about the costs, or amortization factors, output, personnel expenses, safety . . ."

Q. "Safety? What's the problem there?"

A. "Well, fortunately, there hasn't been a serious reactor explosion in America. But suppose one did explode near a city. The blast itself could be serious. Now picture, in addition, a radio-active cloud boiling down on a crowded community, poisoning the air, the food, even the water."

Q. "In that case, who's going to write the insurance on a commercial atom plant?"

A. "That's another tremendous problem. The insurance people are wrestling with it. For weeks, they've been talking with the Atomic Energy Commission. You know, there's a story that somebody asked what a 50-million dollar insurance policy would cost for an atom plant. The answer was, '50 million dollars. . . . I assume they will try to spread the policies around, so as to scatter the risk. And there is some talk that the government may have to come in with re-insurance, at least during an interim period while the insurance firms, like all the rest of us, are getting some actual experience."

Q. "We've been talking about costs, obsolencence, insurance and so on. But suppose we decide to go into the atomic business? Where do we start getting the information?

A. "Mainly from the AEC. We would need a license. And we would have to get security clearances first for the engineers and everybody else who might be directly connected with building the reactor."

Q. "How does that work?"

A. "They have devised what's called the 'L' clearance, meaning 'limited access.' It takes two or three weeks to obtain. With that, you are entitled to such information as you need to build or operate a reactor. Or say—as in the case of the insurance people—to know enough about reactors to base some estimates. It doesn't entitle you to information about high energy. Certainly not about weapons."

Q. "Who draws the line and says just what areas of information are necessary and what are not?"

A. "The AEC. It's responsible under the law for maintaining security over atomic information."

Q. "Does this system work?"

A. "Some people think the AEC is too slow, and over-cautious about declassifying. They feel we may be falling behind other nations, as a result. But the problem is to declassify information without handing over to the Russians something they don't know and could use for military purposes. It's no easy problem."

Q. "AS A BROAD, general question—would you say the government really wants private industry in the atomic energy business? Will we get any cooperation in Washington?"

A. "Everything seems to indicate it does. For instance, if we come forward with a workable proposition, the AEC will give us certain advantages—the loan of fissionable fuel without charge, and making available their laboratories for specific research studies, and so on. Besides, the AEC has its own 200 million dollar program of reactor-research from which we'll benefit. And most of the members of the joint congressional committee sound as though they want business to come in as soon as possible."

Q. "Well, finally, do you think we should come in?"

A. "I don't see how we can stay out. Here's a big, new field with tremendous potentialities. Sure, the costs and the problems are staggering. But this isn't the first time American industry has taken on a big, tough job—and it won't be the last."

Tomorrow: Foreign implications.

THIS IS BAMBI, the deer that adopted Chichester as his home and became a great favorite with residents of that locality before his tragic death last week. Five months old when the picture was taken, Bambi would allow himself to be petted, would follow people like a dog, and would even enter their homes. After Bambi's death, six men were accused of illegal possession of deer meat and paid a total of $315 in civil compromises.

Riebhoff to Talk At St. James

St. James Methodist congregation will hear the Rev. John L. Riebhoff, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts street, a former missionery to Japan, as the fifth service in the Thursday Lenten series on March 31 at 7:30 p. m., following church family dinner.

The Rev. Mr. Riebhoff spent three years at Aoyama Gakuin Mission School in Tokyo, Japan, beginning in 1948. Teaching English in the university department, he also was Bible instructor in a Japanese church of more than 200 members.

One of a group of 50 college students, the Rev. Mr. Riebhoff received training at the Riverdale School, outside New York city, before embarking to Japan. With other missionary-teachers, he taught in a student body of 6,000.

Returning to the United States in 1951, the Rev. Mr. Riebhoff lectured through Iowa and Missouri before beginning his Divinity work at Drew University at Madison, N. J., where he will receive the BD degree in June 1955. The Rev. Mr. Riebhoff was assistant pastor at Trinity Methodist Church, Poughkeepsie 1953-1954, where he met and married Miss June Edgerton. He is now pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts street, Kingston.

Carthage, N. C. (AP)—A woman witness in Recorder's Court was charged with assault with a deadly weapon—a stove lid. Scene of the affray was a night spot, well known to police. "And what were all of you doing when the fight began," asked County Solicitor W. Lamont Brown. "We was playing syndicated games," the woman said. She explained: "Syndicated games is where there's three or four against one. That's what we was playing—everybody against me, and I had to do the best I could."

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Business is like a wheelbarrow; it will empty out only what you and I and Mother Nature put in.

Nature is the largest producer in the world; look at the forests and the grass on the prairie, and the fish in the sea. But unless we help Nature, she will let us starve. Just like that!

Mr. Hutton

"Not worth saving," she says. She won't pay out more than we put in. Even the Kremlin is learning that, on their collective farms. They can't deny Nature, even if they deny God!

What is the result of the brainwashing job the leftwing "intellectuals" have performed on us, Americans, such as same pay for less work? With the same wages spread over fewer pieces produced, the cost goes up. Fewer people can then pay the higher prices, and soon there will be fewer jobs.

But the smart worker can produce even more with less sweat, if he makes our modern machines do most of the hard work. Then more people can buy the things he and the machines produce, and his job is more secure. So keep the wheelbarrow filled with production, and push it!

Take notice: Keep government controls out of the wheelbarrow. That means fixed prices and wages, and production by political orders.

That's the way they do it in Russia and their captive countries.

Here, we work as free men, less approximately 16,000,000 workers, who must pay for the right to work. And, that ain't right, neighbor.

Seven Pay Fines

A total of $342.50 was paid by seven men in civil compromises in the Chichester deer case Saturday night, instead of $315 being paid by six men, as incorrectly stated in Monday's isssue of The Freeman. The error was arithmetical, the seven defendants being named, with the statement that two of them paid $102.50 each, and the others $27.50 each. In summarizing for the lead paragraph, the $27.50 amount was multiplied by four instead of by five as it should have been.

The Atomic Future: 2

(Turning the atom to private use is a highly complex problem — involving lots of money, national security and, at this stage, not much know-how. American industry can solve these problems, as it has others. But here are some reasons why it will take time).

By REMLAM MORIN

Washington, March 30 (AP) — Building the atomic bomb was a ferociously complicated process.

But it is beginning to seem like child's play compared to the problems of bringing atomic energy to ordinary peaceful uses. The atom waits—so near and yet so far—a taunt and a challenge to private industry.

Take electric power as the object example.

For many reasons, this may be the first great field where the atom goes to work. American power consumption tends to double every 10 years. The economy demands more and more electricity.

TECHNICALLY, you could have atom-generated electricity in your home today. Engineers know how to hook a nuclear reactor to a generator and take off electric power.

Then why not do it immediately?

Suppose you are the president of a big electric power company. The board of directors is in session One of them asks you that question: "Why not do it now?"

President: "The simple fact is, gentlemen, that as of today, atomic-generated electricity is just too expensive. It isn't yet competitive, in cost, with ordinary power."

Director: "How big is in the difference in cost?"

1. "Pretty big. Power rates vary all over the United States. On the average, however, I'd say that with present techniques, atom-electricity would be at least twice as costly. That's only an estimate."

Q. "You keep mentioning the situation today. Does this imply that new techniques will cut costs sharply tomorrow?"

A. "LET'S TAKE just one big phase of the problem. Nobody yet knows how to transmute atomic energy directly into electricity. You still need turbines, generators and all the conventional equipment. The nuclear reactor merely takes the place of one part of the machine. Now suppose a method is found to convert atomic energy into electric power without those intermediate steps? Then, no doubt, atomic electricity would be more than competitive with the processes we are using now."

1. "Apart from that, what will it cost to build a nuclear reactor? How long will it take?"

A. "Between 40 and 50 million dollars, and four to five years. It depends on the size of the reactor."

Q. "So if we started today, it would be around 1960 before we had any atom-electricity?"

A. "That's right. And you've touched on another part of the problem. We decide to build a reactor and it's about half-finished when somebody comes along with a new design, more efficient, lower operating costs, and so on. In a technical field moving ahead as rapidly as atomic energy, that can easily happen. In other words, our reactor could be obsolete before it ever turned out a kilowatt."

Q. "YOU MENTIONED operating costs. What about them?"

A. "That's an uncharted sea. No private industry has operated a reactor. So we just don't know much about the costs, or amortization factors, output, personnel expenses, safety . . ."

Q. "Safety? What's the problem there?"

A. "Well, fortunately, there hasn't been a serious reactor explosion in America. But suppose one did explode near a city. The blast itself could be serious. Now picture, in addition, a radio-active cloud boiling down on a crowded community, poisoning the air, the food, even the water."

Q. "In that case, who's going to write the insurance on a commercial atom plant?"

A. "That's another tremendous problem. The insurance people are wrestling with it. For weeks, they've been talking with the Atomic Energy Commission. You know, there's a story that somebody asked what a 50-million dollar insurance policy would cost for an atom plant. The answer was, '50 million dollars. . . . I assume they will try to spread the policies around, so as to scatter the risk. And there is some talk that the government may have to come in with re-insurance, at least during an interim period while the insurance firms, like all the rest of us, are getting some actual experience."

Q. "We've been talking about costs, obsolencence, insurance and so on. But suppose we decide to go into the atomic business? Where do we start getting the information?

A. "Mainly from the AEC. We would need a license. And we would have to get security clearances first for the engineers and everybody else who might be directly connected with building the reactor."

Q. "How does that work?"

A. "They have devised what's called the 'L' clearance, meaning 'limited access.' It takes two or three weeks to obtain. With that, you are entitled to such information as you need to build or operate a reactor. Or say—as in the case of the insurance people—to know enough about reactors to base some estimates. It doesn't entitle you to information about high energy. Certainly not about weapons."

Q. "Who draws the line and says just what areas of information are necessary and what are not?"

A. "The AEC. It's responsible under the law for maintaining security over atomic information."

Q. "Does this system work?"

A. "Some people think the AEC is too slow, and over-cautious about declassifying. They feel we may be falling behind other nations, as a result. But the problem is to declassify information without handing over to the Russians something they don't know and could use for military purposes. It's no easy problem."

Q. "AS A BROAD, general question—would you say the government really wants private industry in the atomic energy business? Will we get any cooperation in Washington?"

A. "Everything seems to indicate it does. For instance, if we come forward with a workable proposition, the AEC will give us certain advantages—the loan of fissionable fuel without charge, and making available their laboratories for specific research studies, and so on. Besides, the AEC has its own 200 million dollar program of reactor-research from which we'll benefit. And most of the members of the joint congressional committee sound as though they want business to come in as soon as possible."

Q. "Well, finally, do you think we should come in?"

A. "I don't see how we can stay out. Here's a big, new field with tremendous potentialities. Sure, the costs and the problems are staggering. But this isn't the first time American industry has taken on a big, tough job—and it won't be the last."

Tomorrow: Foreign implications.

THIS IS BAMBI, the deer that adopted Chichester as his home and became a great favorite with residents of that locality before his tragic death last week. Five months old when the picture was taken, Bambi would allow himself to be petted, would follow people like a dog, and would even enter their homes. After Bambi's death, six men were accused of illegal possession of deer meat and paid a total of $315 in civil compromises.

AWESOME PROSPECT

When the President, Vice President and Secretary of State all say substantially the same thing about the tactical use of atomic weapons in another war, the comment deserves to be carefully examined.

Plainly it was no accident that the three men spoke on this matter at this time and in quick succession. They are trying to warn the Communist Chinese against an aggressive move in the Formosa Straits.

Though the Reds have not actually moved against Formosa or even the coastal island groups of Quemoy and Matsu, they talk as if they had no thought of heeding our earlier warnings. Hence it is understandable that Mr. Eisenhower and his top administration leaders should want to try—in a very specific way—the deterrent effect of atomic force.

No one but the men in Peiping can say whether Red China will regard this series of threats seriously.

It is fair for us in America to ask how seriously it is meant. If the things said are inescapably true, then the United States will never fight another war of even moderate size without employing atomic power.

To some this prospect will perhaps seem comforting, for atomic weapons can be viewed as the great equalizer for us, the factor that balances or outweighs the human hordes of China and Russia.

Yet the prospect is at the same time frightening. Mr. Eisenhower and the others spoke of small, "precise" atomic devices that could be applied to strictly military targets. But some military experts say even the smallest atomic weapon would produce a blast area so great it could not necessarily be confined to military objectives.

Once atomic force was unleashed which would spread its effects to civilian populations, then no one could promise that war would be confined short of all-out nuclear combat.

Presumably there is always the chance that the President refers to weapons so new that "outside" military experts do not know their details. More likely, there are different ways of evaluating the potential of particular weapons.

In any event, it is clear that enormous risk of annihilating conflict will attend the use of atomic devices of any caliber.

We must hope that the threat—not the use—of atomic force is sufficient to deter Peiping from new aggressions as it has deterred the Soviet Union through this first postwar decade.

There can be no real pleasure for anyone in contemplating the possibility of a war in which atomic weapons would be nearly as standard as the soldier's rifle. Fewer soldiers might be called on to face death on the battlefield. But the whole of our civilization would face the prospect of death.

It's best simply to build, not to try to sell, your reputation. Otherwise, you're apt to get shortchanged.

TAXES UPON TAXES

The problem of overlapping taxation—in which more than one unit of government taps the same source—is a critical one.

A survey made in Oregon shows what has happened. The state has six major sources of tax revenue. Four of these—individual income, motor fuels, corporate income, and death and gift—are levies which are also imposed by the federal government. Only two—auto licensing, and the state retail liquor monopoly—are free of federal taxation.

This is probably fairly typical of the whole country. Taxes are piled upon taxes. And even the modest reductions made last year in federal taxes are being largely lost to us because of increased state and local taxation.

Middle age is when the fellow with the same years as you looks young.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A SENSE OF HISTORY

The National Committee for an Effective Congress has issued a circular letter to a general mailing list, including persons who have always opposed it. It wants more money. The letter is signed by Oscar Hammerstein II who writes successful plays and Sidney H. Scheuer, about whom I know nothing.

The circular letter speaks of a "know-nothing group in Congress" which is suppoosed to be a term of opprobrium but is historically a synonym for nationalism. Why Mr. Hammerstein does not call these members of Congress nationalists, I cannot know, except perhaps that to do so would lose him contributors. There is still a strong grassroots nationalistic sentiment in the United States, albeit one must admit that it is not too strong in Washington or New York where internationalism thrives despite all.

So, Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer hold that these nationalists combined with commentators, newspapers and organizations to grab "for the instruments of power, and set the political climate." These elected representatives of the people apparently did something wrong when they voted their consciences or according to the general attitude of their constituencies.

Then I must quote:

"On the other hand, the responsible candidates, when they arrived on Capitol Hill, found that most of the outside organizations to which they looked for support and research were limited in scope to specify legislative goals, mostly economic and usually unattainable in the existing climate. Yet these good legislators were in a fight to defend our way of life, requiring a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups."

I cannot tell you who these "responsible candidates" who arrived on Capitol Hill are because they are not listed, although I think the writers meant elected representatives. Have it as you will, what makes one group "responsible" and another group power-grabbers? The answer is that those who agree with the National Committee for an Effective Congress are "responsible" and everybody else is a bum. You can turn that idea vice versa and come up with the same degree of truth.

The next sentence in this quoted paragraph I do not understand at all. Who are "these good legislators"? Is, for instance, Senator Flanders a good legislator because he read a speech that this Committee prepared for him? Is Senator Dirksen a bad legislator because he did not read such a speech? Look at the record and the goodness or badness of neither is so clearly definable.

And what is meant by "a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups"? What are these economic groups? Take for instance, H.R. 1, the tariff act, which is supported by Henry Ford II and Walter Reuther, one representing ownership and management and the other the labor union—both in the same industry. Although they divide on the question of the annual wage, they unite on H.R. 1, on a freer trade tariff. Where is the clear-cut economic grouping? And what are their slogans? And wherein do they lack a sense of history? And why are we to believe that Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer have a more acute sense of history? The letter does not say.

Here is another one of those curious phrases: "Now, after the censure of McCarthy, the momentary decline of the know-nothings leaves a political vacuum. . . ."

Firstly, McCarthy was not censured.

Secondly, if what these gentlemen call know-nothingism and what actually is nationalism has so declined that it leaves a political vacuum, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has won a great victory. It has done its work. It should now go out of existence having saved the United States from the plague of nationalism. Even a doctor quits when the patient is cured. But no! This Committee would fill that vacuum—that is, the vacuum created by the decline of nationalism. There is no vacuum among the internationalists.

Nevertheless, this organization wants more money to provide Members of Congress with their services ". . . whether it involves a request for a lawyer with the qualifications and time to undertake a particular study, or the provision of a typist who can help prepare necessary documents—requires a constant application of skilled man-hours."

It is an interesting appeal. If they had asked me for a contribution, I would send mine to the Damon Runyon Fund or to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

CATARACTS

It is unfortunate that as soon as we hear the word "cataract" we immediately fear that there is a very great danger of loss of eyesight. It is similar to the fear that the word "heart disease" throws into us. Now, in reality, cataract means any opacity (blind spot) no matter how small, of the lens of the eye. Consequently, cataract and loss of vision are not necessarily one and the same. Whether a cataract is to be accompanied by a disturbance in vision depends on the size, position and thickness of the opacity.

Almost everyone has some degree of opacity of the crystalline lens, some of which are present from infancy, but more definite changes become apparent in the eyes of more than half the persons past 60-years-of-age. What does the general practitioner usually do when he suspects the changes due to the presence of cataract? He obtains a thorough history and does a complete examination, then refers the patient to a competent eye specialist for a definite diagnosis. In many cases the eye specialist can tell, by the special instruments at his disposal, whether the blind spots are important or unimportant and whether they are likely to increase in size or remain stationary.

The only practical way to restore vision, in a case of cataract, is surgical removal of the cataract. However, if any of the following conditions are present, surgery is not indicated:

1. Vision which is adequate for the purposes of the patient, with neither eye containing a full grown cataract.

2. If there is reason to believe that vision in the operated will not improve in spite of successful removal of the cataract. A person for whom removal of cataract is planned should be able to perceive a source of light and locate it accurately; should be able to identify colored light (blue, red or green); in spite of the thickest cataract, the pupil of the eye should respond to normal light (that is, contract). If there is a poor response to any of these tests, it is felt that there is trouble in the vision structure behind the cataract and that a good result from surgery will not likely be obtained.

It used to be felt that a cataract should never be removed until it was "mature" or "ripe" but many eye specialists now feel that, with certain exceptions, of course, the cataract should be removed as soon as it has a serious effect on the patient's vision.

What is the outlook for the restoration of vision following the removal of an uncomplicated cataract? Fortunately, it is extremely good — 85 to 90 per cent of patients obtain good useful vision.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — April 1 to 16 will be the Democrats' time to howl. Congress will practically shut down in honor of Jefferson and Jackson and incidentally Easter. This is to make up for the Republican shutdown in February to observe Lincoln's birthday and incidentally Washington's. This year it revealed the Chicago split in the GOP.

Culmination of the Democratic doings will be a $100-a-plate dinner in honor of Sam Rayburn of Texas, Speaker of the House of Representatives. The place and the dinner committee haven't even been named yet, but already around 400 reservations have rolled in.

If these advance signs mean anything, this Saturday night blowout should launch the Democrats' 1956 presidential campaign—without a candidate. It might even do something to get the Democratic treasury out of the red.

Incidentally, Matthew H. McCloskey, of Philadelphia, the man who invented the $100-a-plate dinner back in 1934, has now reported to work as treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

THE REAL SIGNIFICANCE of this is that the 1956 campaigns are bound to cost a great deal more than any before.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D., Mo.) has introduced a bill to increase the Hatch act ceiling on political campaign expenses by any organization from $3 million to $6.5 million. This doubling of the maximum gives an idea of what is ahead for the fund raisers in times when everything costs more, and color television is just around the corner.

The Democrats are now fairly well set on Aug. 13, 1956, as the opening date for their presidential nominating convention in Chicago, according to National Chairman Paul M. Butler. While the Eisenhower Republicans steered clear of the Windy City as being too reactionary, this does not bother the Democrats in the slightest. Nor does the prospect of Chichgo's midsummer heat seem to bother them. The hotter it gets, the better they like it.

UNDER THE NEW SCHEDULE, both parties will go right from the conventions into the campaigns. The doldrums will be eliminated.

With the times and the places set 17 months ahead and with the money provided even if they have to go in debt for it, everything is shaping up nicely for both parties except the candidates and the issues. Here they're in a quandary.

The Republicans all hope Mr. Eisenhower will run again. The Democrats hope he won't. There is a Republican notion floating around that even if President Eisenhower decides not to run again—making his formal announcement about a year from now—there will be time to build up a new candidate. The GOP experience in building up Wendell Willkie in 1940 is cited as a precedent.

The Democrats may have to do this, regardless. It is agreed that even if ex-Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois wants to be renominated, he will have to get out and work for it this time. He can't sit back and wait to be drafted. Other hopefuls will be in there battling.

UNTIL THE PLATFORMS are adopted at the convention, the national records of the two parties are made by their representations in Congress. The Republicans will run on the Eisenhower record.

Democrats, it now appears, will have to run on an oppostion record that is now being written by Mr. Sam and Co. It is still pretty fuzzy, but is shaping up around these seven essential elements:

Cut personal income taxes and possibly repeal the Eisenhower deductions and credits on dividends.

Increase minimum wage above the GOP 90 cent figure.

More direct federal aid for school construction.

More direct federal aid for highway construction.

A larger defense budget based on military needs and not on a predetermined financial budget ceiling.

Pumping around $2 billion more federal spending into the economy to increase employment.

Raise support prices on basic crops to 90 per cent of parity.

Today in Washington

Main Goal of Most Democrats Seems to Be to Undermine President

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 30 — The Democratic party, which is in control of both Houses of Congress, may not be aware of the impression which it is conveying to the country, but, now that about three months of the present session have elapsed, it is apparent that the main objective of most of the Democrats is to undermine confidence in President Eisenhower.

It is a new experience for Dwight Eisenhower to be accused by a United States senator of "parading his religion."

IT IS A NEW experience for the man who commanded the allied armies in Europe to be made the subject of attempted ridicule by a United States senator who raises an issue because two or three squirrels were prevented from ruining a putting green that the President uses to get the exercise which his physician prescribes.

It is a new experience for the President to have a Democratic party spokesman hint to audiences that there is something wrong with the health of Mrs. Eisenhower which might cause the President not to run in 1956—as if this, too, were a proper subject for political discussion.

But the net effect of it all is to awaken a suspicion that maybe the Democratic party speakers think they must first destroy the prestige of the President and that then they will carry the next election.

NOT LONG AGO the Congress voted itself an increase in pay, and it was a deserved increase, but it will not sit well with the people if members of Congress give a cumulative impression of being concerned with personal attacks on the man in the White House rather than with the progress of legislation needed to advance the nation's welfare.

It was Senator Neely of West Virginia, Democrat, who throughout the campaign last autumn bitterly attacked Mr. Eisenhower, and now the senator selects the convention of the CIO union, the United Auto Workers, as the place to criticize Mr. Eisenhower for having lately joined a church. Mr. Neely, according to an Associated Press dispatch this week from Cleveland, said:

"Eisenhower never joined a church until after he became President. . . . (Now) it has reached the point that one of the great papers of the country every Monday morning carries a story about Eisenhower's attendance at church the day before. . . .

"Any man who tries to parade his religion that way before the public is ungodly. If that's an unreasonable and unfair statement, then make the most of it."

HERE WAS A calculated and deliberate attack on the personal side of the President. Whether he joins a church as a member and where—as a military man, he has moved about considerably — is his own business. Certainly nobody with the least knowledge about public life can for a moment believe that Mr. Eisenhower or any other President "parades" his religion just because the newspapermen report where he goes on Sundays or any other day. They report not only on his attendance or non-attendance at church each week, but they uncover the fact that squirrels have been damaging the putting green. Mr. Eisenhower should not be accused of "parading" these things. That's the normal everyday initiative of the press as it reports on matters of reader interest.

But for United States senators to take up these incidents and magnify them for political purposes is to assume that the voters will accept such misrepresentation.

What Mr. Neely said tends to bring the United States Senate into disrepute—to revive a phrase that was heard last autumn when another United States senator said some sharp things about an army general who refused to answer questions clearly in a congressional committee hearing. It is a safe bet, however, that no spokesman of America's "Left Wing" in the Senate will rise to demand that Senator Neely be "censured" or "condemned" for his intemperate remark. Those things aren't suggested when a "Left Wing" senator begins to swing wildly against the President of the United States.

THE IMPRESSION conveyed by these Democrats is that they are not seriously concerned with the business of the American people but only with headline hunting and the technique of ridicule and personal attack. The voters will not be misled into accepting this form of political warfare as a substitute for the service the Democrats ought to be rendering to their constituents in the 84th Congress.

Marriage Rules

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Married men may annoy their wives, according to a ruling by Judge Anne X. Alpern. Judge Alpern ordered John Chara, 44, to keep away from his divorced wife. Mrs. Chara complained her former spouse kept calling her on the telephone and she objected to some of his remarks. Judge Alpern, who is married, told Chara: "You can annoy your wife if you're married to her but not if you're divorced!"

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Ariz., March 29—Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of the Tulsa Tribune, which is consistently honest and courageous, made a speech to a collection of Arizona editors at Phoenix a few weeks ago. He told them that the trouble with our newspaper journalism of today is cowardice. Not venality but cowardice. He said there were some awful crooks in charge of many papers years ago but they had plenty of guts. Too many fellows on the current roster are too comfortable, too fond of their material luxury, and their "importance," their country-club social status, to put it that way, to campaign for virtuous causes which would be unpopular with the majority of the readers, with "pressure" groups or retail advertisers. Mr. Jones had been asked to judge a contest among Texas newspapers for an award for public service. One paper had the gall to nominate itself because it had run a campaign against rabies.

"Well," Mr. Jones said, "who the hell is going to defend rabies?"

This is all by way of a practice swing.

I now call to your attention to a particular case.

Mr. Jones' same Tulsa Tribune recently published a series of pious homilies entitled "Lenten Guidposts", accredited to "The Magazine Guideposts" and copyrighted by "Guideposts Associates, Carmel, N. Y." The particular piece that I refer to is one carried under the by-line of Charles A. Ward, of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Ward is president of Brown and Bigelow, which prints calendars, fancy labels and color-press advertising matter. It is an old firm of national renown which Ward acquired by a strange process following a term he had served in Leavenworth after being convicted of dealing in narcotics in Denver. In prison, he met Herbert Bigelow, who was doing a short jolt for income tax fraud. Being a fellow of commanding personality, Ward took Bigelow under his protection and eased his way. When they both got out, Bigelow took Ward into the business in St. Paul and in no time at all, Ward was the works.

Bigelow and a woman were murdered by an unknown assassin and Ward was Bigelow's principal legatee. This crime has been the subject of many of those reminiscent mystery features. It never was solved. Apparently Bigelow was lured into a clandestine date.

It is needless to say that Mr. Jones was unaware of Ward's background when he printed this piece. I telegraphed to inquire where he got it. He replied "Lenten Guidepost Syndicated by Des Moines Register Tribune Syndicate."

The Des Moines Register outfit operates the monopoly paper in Minneapolis, which is cheek-by-jowl with St. Paul. Everybody who knows anything in either city knows that Ward is a notorious character: He muscled into New Deal politics early in the game. He got a presidential pardon, staked Anna Roosevelt Boettiger to $50,000 for her newspaper flop in Phoenix and wrote it off along with the rest of the donors who had various obvious motives, and most recently turned up in the prosecution of Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., the former Democratic commissioner of internal revenue who was convicted of tax fraud himself and sentenced to prison. Ward paid Nunan $25,000 in stock of his company, to "expedite" a tax case involving Brown and Bigelow. Nunan's "services" as attorney to earn the $25,000 consisted of four telephone calls. Ward already had received a favorable ruling valuable to him from Nunan as commissioner.

The documents in this case were labelled "Commissioner Interested".

Nunan resigned in June, 1947 and Ward hired him to make the phone calls in November. As a result of those calls the documents in the second problem were labelled "rush", after months of delay.

Ward's power in politics is real and ruthless. He once tried to appoint the United States marshal in St. Paul. The FBI balked and cooperated with Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin and Ward's man did not get the job. He was close to the late Robert La Follette, Jr., who was either an accomplice or a tool of the Communists. Joe McCarthy beat him and thus eliminated Ward.

About 1935, Ward and La Follette conceived the idea of making a political revolution in the mid-west with either Ward or La Follette as the presidential nominee, although, at that time, Ward could not even vote, to say nothing of holding office.

In the 1947 tax problem, Ward's personal lawyer proposed that Ward engage the late Robert Hannegan, of the Truman Missouri gang, who died rich after a penniless start and a short career. He was chairman of the Democratic National Committee and postmaster general. He was too busy to take Ward's business so Nunan got it.

Ward has claimed that he soldiered with Pancho Villa in Mexico, but his whole career is cloudy and that phase is not verified. The federal judge who sentenced him in Denver gave him an unusual tongue-lashing which summed him up as an inveterate rascal of long experience in the underworld.

Ever since he got into Brown and Bigelow, Ward has made a boast of his preference for ex-convicts. He claims he runs with them because he sympathizes with them in their social problems. Nevertheless some resemble Al Capone's convoys of "muscle."

On the 25th anniversary of Ward's graduation from Leavenworth, Truman sent him a written greeting, supplementing one of those phony "E" awards which were tossed around during the war. After Truman left the White House, Ward offered him $100,000 a year to be his sales manager.

The Cowles brothers, who own the Minneapolis and Des Moines newspaper monopolies, know Ward's whole story and they once gave him the standard glamor treatment in "Look."

In his "Lenten Guidepost," Ward sprinkles himself over with new-mown lilies as a great philanthropist and a sinner who has reformed.

AWESOME PROSPECT

When the President, Vice President and Secretary of State all say substantially the same thing about the tactical use of atomic weapons in another war, the comment deserves to be carefully examined.

Plainly it was no accident that the three men spoke on this matter at this time and in quick succession. They are trying to warn the Communist Chinese against an aggressive move in the Formosa Straits.

Though the Reds have not actually moved against Formosa or even the coastal island groups of Quemoy and Matsu, they talk as if they had no thought of heeding our earlier warnings. Hence it is understandable that Mr. Eisenhower and his top administration leaders should want to try—in a very specific way—the deterrent effect of atomic force.

No one but the men in Peiping can say whether Red China will regard this series of threats seriously.

It is fair for us in America to ask how seriously it is meant. If the things said are inescapably true, then the United States will never fight another war of even moderate size without employing atomic power.

To some this prospect will perhaps seem comforting, for atomic weapons can be viewed as the great equalizer for us, the factor that balances or outweighs the human hordes of China and Russia.

Yet the prospect is at the same time frightening. Mr. Eisenhower and the others spoke of small, "precise" atomic devices that could be applied to strictly military targets. But some military experts say even the smallest atomic weapon would produce a blast area so great it could not necessarily be confined to military objectives.

Once atomic force was unleashed which would spread its effects to civilian populations, then no one could promise that war would be confined short of all-out nuclear combat.

Presumably there is always the chance that the President refers to weapons so new that "outside" military experts do not know their details. More likely, there are different ways of evaluating the potential of particular weapons.

In any event, it is clear that enormous risk of annihilating conflict will attend the use of atomic devices of any caliber.

We must hope that the threat—not the use—of atomic force is sufficient to deter Peiping from new aggressions as it has deterred the Soviet Union through this first postwar decade.

There can be no real pleasure for anyone in contemplating the possibility of a war in which atomic weapons would be nearly as standard as the soldier's rifle. Fewer soldiers might be called on to face death on the battlefield. But the whole of our civilization would face the prospect of death.

It's best simply to build, not to try to sell, your reputation. Otherwise, you're apt to get shortchanged.

TAXES UPON TAXES

The problem of overlapping taxation—in which more than one unit of government taps the same source—is a critical one.

A survey made in Oregon shows what has happened. The state has six major sources of tax revenue. Four of these—individual income, motor fuels, corporate income, and death and gift—are levies which are also imposed by the federal government. Only two—auto licensing, and the state retail liquor monopoly—are free of federal taxation.

This is probably fairly typical of the whole country. Taxes are piled upon taxes. And even the modest reductions made last year in federal taxes are being largely lost to us because of increased state and local taxation.

Middle age is when the fellow with the same years as you looks young.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A SENSE OF HISTORY

The National Committee for an Effective Congress has issued a circular letter to a general mailing list, including persons who have always opposed it. It wants more money. The letter is signed by Oscar Hammerstein II who writes successful plays and Sidney H. Scheuer, about whom I know nothing.

The circular letter speaks of a "know-nothing group in Congress" which is suppoosed to be a term of opprobrium but is historically a synonym for nationalism. Why Mr. Hammerstein does not call these members of Congress nationalists, I cannot know, except perhaps that to do so would lose him contributors. There is still a strong grassroots nationalistic sentiment in the United States, albeit one must admit that it is not too strong in Washington or New York where internationalism thrives despite all.

So, Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer hold that these nationalists combined with commentators, newspapers and organizations to grab "for the instruments of power, and set the political climate." These elected representatives of the people apparently did something wrong when they voted their consciences or according to the general attitude of their constituencies.

Then I must quote:

"On the other hand, the responsible candidates, when they arrived on Capitol Hill, found that most of the outside organizations to which they looked for support and research were limited in scope to specify legislative goals, mostly economic and usually unattainable in the existing climate. Yet these good legislators were in a fight to defend our way of life, requiring a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups."

I cannot tell you who these "responsible candidates" who arrived on Capitol Hill are because they are not listed, although I think the writers meant elected representatives. Have it as you will, what makes one group "responsible" and another group power-grabbers? The answer is that those who agree with the National Committee for an Effective Congress are "responsible" and everybody else is a bum. You can turn that idea vice versa and come up with the same degree of truth.

The next sentence in this quoted paragraph I do not understand at all. Who are "these good legislators"? Is, for instance, Senator Flanders a good legislator because he read a speech that this Committee prepared for him? Is Senator Dirksen a bad legislator because he did not read such a speech? Look at the record and the goodness or badness of neither is so clearly definable.

And what is meant by "a sense of history reaching beyond the slogans of economic groups"? What are these economic groups? Take for instance, H.R. 1, the tariff act, which is supported by Henry Ford II and Walter Reuther, one representing ownership and management and the other the labor union—both in the same industry. Although they divide on the question of the annual wage, they unite on H.R. 1, on a freer trade tariff. Where is the clear-cut economic grouping? And what are their slogans? And wherein do they lack a sense of history? And why are we to believe that Messrs. Hammerstein and Scheuer have a more acute sense of history? The letter does not say.

Here is another one of those curious phrases: "Now, after the censure of McCarthy, the momentary decline of the know-nothings leaves a political vacuum. . . ."

Firstly, McCarthy was not censured.

Secondly, if what these gentlemen call know-nothingism and what actually is nationalism has so declined that it leaves a political vacuum, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has won a great victory. It has done its work. It should now go out of existence having saved the United States from the plague of nationalism. Even a doctor quits when the patient is cured. But no! This Committee would fill that vacuum—that is, the vacuum created by the decline of nationalism. There is no vacuum among the internationalists.

Nevertheless, this organization wants more money to provide Members of Congress with their services ". . . whether it involves a request for a lawyer with the qualifications and time to undertake a particular study, or the provision of a typist who can help prepare necessary documents—requires a constant application of skilled manhours."

It is an interesting appeal. If they had asked me for a contribution, I would send mine to the Damon Runyon Fund or to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

CATARACTS

It is unfortunate that as soon as we hear the word "cataract" we immediately fear that there is a very great danger of loss of eyesight. It is similar to the fear that the word "heart disease" throws into us. Now, in reality, cataract means any opacity (blind spot) no matter how small, of the lens of the eye. Consequently, cataract and loss of vision are not necessarily one and the same. Whether a cataract is to be accompanied by a disturbance in vision depends on the size, position and thickness of the opacity.

2. If there is reason to believe that vision in the operated will not improve in spite of successful removal of the cataract. A person for whom removal of cataract is planned should be able to perceive a source of light and locate it accurately; should be able to identify colored light (blue, red or green); in spite of the thickest cataract, the pupil of the eye should respond to normal light (that is, contract). If there is a poor response to any of these tests, it is felt that there is trouble in the vision structure behind the cataract and that a good result from surgery will not likely be obtained.

It used to be felt that a cataract should never be removed until it was "mature" or "ripe" but many eye specialists now feel that, with certain exceptions, of course, the cataract should be removed as soon as it has a serious effect on the patient's vision.

Main Goal of Most Democrats Seems to Be to Undermine President

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 30 — The Democratic party, which is in control of both Houses of Congress, may not be aware of the impression which it is conveying to the country, but, now that about three months of the present session have elapsed, it is apparent that the main objective of most of the Democrats is to undermine confidence in President Eisenhower.

It is a new experience for Dwight Eisenhower to be accused by a United States senator of "parading his religion."

IT IS A NEW experience for the man who commanded the allied armies in Europe to be made the subject of attempted ridicule by a United States senator who raises an issue because two or three squirrels were prevented from ruining a putting green that the President uses to get the exercise which his physician prescribes.

It is a new experience for the President to have a Democratic party spokesman hint to audiences that there is something wrong with the health of Mrs. Eisenhower which might cause the President not to run in 1956—as if this, too, were a proper subject for political discussion.

But the net effect of it all is to awaken a suspicion that maybe the Democratic party speakers think they must first destroy the prestige of the President and that then they will carry the next election.

NOT LONG AGO the Congress voted itself an increase in pay, and it was a deserved increase, but it will not sit well with the people if members of Congress give a cumulative impression of being concerned with personal attacks on the man in the White House rather than with the progress of legislation needed to advance the nation's welfare.

It was Senator Neely of West Virginia, Democrat, who throughout the campaign last autumn bitterly attacked Mr. Eisenhower, and now the senator selects the convention of the CIO union, the United Auto Workers, as the place to criticize Mr. Eisenhower for having lately joined a church. Mr. Neely, according to an Associated Press dispatch this week from Cleveland, said:

"Eisenhower never joined a church until after he became President. . . . (Now) it has reached the point that one of the great papers of the country every Monday morning carries a story about Eisenhower's attendance at church the day before. . . .

"Any man who tries to parade his religion that way before the public is ungodly. If that's an unreasonable and unfair statement, then make the most of it."

HERE WAS A calculated and deliberate attack on the personal side of the President. Whether he joins a church as a member and where—as a military man, he has moved about considerably — is his own business. Certainly nobody with the least knowledge about public life can for a moment believe that Mr. Eisenhower or any other President "parades" his religion just because the newspapermen report where he goes on Sundays or any other day. They report not only on his attendance or non-attendance at church each week, but they uncover the fact that squirrels have been damaging the putting green. Mr. Eisenhower should not be accused of "parading" these things. That's the normal everyday initiative of the press as it reports on matters of reader interest.

But for United States senators to take up these incidents and magnify them for political purposes is to assume that the voters will accept such misrepresentation.

What Mr. Neely said tends to bring the United States Senate into disrepute—to revive a phrase that was heard last autumn when another United States senator said some sharp things about an army general who refused to answer questions clearly in a congressional committee hearing. It is a safe bet, however, that no spokesman of America's "Left Wing" in the Senate will rise to demand that Senator Neely be "censured" or "condemned" for his intemperate remark. Those things aren't suggested when a "Left Wing" senator begins to swing wildly against the President of the United States.

THE IMPRESSION conveyed by these Democrats is that they are not seriously concerned with the business of the American people but only with headline hunting and the technique of ridicule and personal attack. The voters will not be misled into accepting this form of political warfare as a substitute for the service the Democrats ought to be rendering to their constituents in the 84th Congress.

Marriage Rules

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — Married men may annoy their wives, according to a ruling by Judge Anne X. Alpern. Judge Alpern ordered John Chara, 44, to keep away from his divorced wife. Mrs. Chara complained her former spouse kept calling her on the telephone and she objected to some of his remarks. Judge Alpern, who is married, told Chara: "You can annoy your wife if you're married to her but not if you're divorced!"

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Ariz., March 29—Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of the Tulsa Tribune, which is consistently honest and courageous, made a speech to a collection of Arizona editors at Phoenix a few weeks ago. He told them that the trouble with our newspaper journalism of today is cowardice. Not venality but cowardice. He said there were some awful crooks in charge of many papers years ago but they had plenty of guts. Too many fellows on the current roster are too comfortable, too fond of their material luxury, and their "importance," their country-club social status, to put it that way, to campaign for virtuous causes which would be unpopular with the majority of the readers, with "pressure" groups or retail advertisers. Mr. Jones had been asked to judge a contest among Texas newspapers for an award for public service. One paper had the gall to nominate itself because it had run a campaign against rabies.

"Well," Mr. Jones said, "who the hell is going to defend rabies?"

This is all by way of a practice swing.

I now call to your attention to a particular case.

Mr. Jones' same Tulsa Tribune recently published a series of pious homilies entitled "Lenten Guidposts", accredited to "The Magazine Guideposts" and copyrighted by "Guideposts Associates, Carmel, N. Y." The particular piece that I refer to is one carried under the by-line of Charles A. Ward, of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Ward is president of Brown and Bigelow, which prints calendars, fancy labels and color-press advertising matter. It is an old firm of national renown which Ward acquired by a strange process following a term he had served in Leavenworth after being convicted of dealing in narcotics in Denver. In prison, he met Herbert Bigelow, who was doing a short jolt for income tax fraud. Being a fellow of commanding personality, Ward took Bigelow under his protection and eased his way. When they both got out, Bigelow took Ward into the business in St. Paul and in no time at all, Ward was the works.

Bigelow and a woman were murdered by an unknown assassin and Ward was Bigelow's principal legatee. This crime has been the subject of many of those reminiscent mystery features. It never was solved. Apparently Bigelow was lured into a clandestine date.

It is needless to say that Mr. Jones was unaware of Ward's background when he printed this piece. I telegraphed to inquire where he got it. He replied "Lenten Guidepost Syndicated by Des Moines Register Tribune Syndicate."

The Des Moines Register outfit operates the monopoly paper in Minneapolis, which is cheek-by-jowl with St. Paul. Everybody who knows anything in either city knows that Ward is a notorious character. He muscled into New Deal politics early in the game. He got a presidential pardon, staked Anna Roosevelt Boettiger to $50,000 for her newspaper flop in Phoenix and wrote it off along with the rest of the donors who had various obvious motives, and most recently turned up in the prosecution of Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., the former Democratic commissioner of internal revenue who was convicted of tax fraud himself and sentenced to prison. Ward paid Nunan $25,000 in stock of his company, to "expedite" a tax case involving Brown and Bigelow. Nunan's "services" as attorney to earn the $25,000 consisted of four telephone calls. Ward already had received a favorable ruling valuable to him from Nunan as commissioner.

The documents in this case were labelled "Commissioner Interested".

Nunan resigned in June, 1947 and Ward hired him to make the phone calls in November. As a result of those calls the documents in the second problem were labelled "rush", after months of delay.

Ward's power in politics is real and ruthless. He once tried to appoint the United States marshal in St. Paul. The FBI balked and cooperated with Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin and Ward's man did not get the job. He was close to the late Robert La Follette, Jr., who was either an accomplice or a tool of the Communists. Joe McCarthy beat him and thus eliminated Ward.

About 1935, Ward and La Follette conceived the idea of making a political revolution in the mid-west with either Ward or La Follette as the presidential nominee, although, at that time, Ward could not even vote, to say nothing of holding office.

In the 1947 tax problem, Ward's personal lawyer proposed that Ward engage the late Robert Hannegan, of the Truman Missouri gang, who died rich after a penniless start and a short career. He was chairman of the Democratic National Committee and postmaster general. He was too busy to take Ward's business so Nunan got it.

Ward has claimed that he soldiered with Pancho Villa in Mexico, but his whole career is cloudy and that phase is not verified. The federal judge who sentenced him in Denver gave him an unusual tongue-lashing which summed him up as an inveterate rascal of long experience in the underworld.

Ever since he got into Brown and Bigelow, Ward has made a boast of his preference for ex-convicts. He claims he runs with them because he sympathizes with them in their social problems. Nevertheless some resemble Al Capone's convoys of "muscle."

On the 25th anniversary of Ward's graduation from Leavenworth, Truman sent him a written greeting, supplementing one of those phony "E" awards which were tossed around during the war. After Truman left the White House, Ward offered him $100,000 a year to be his sales manager.

The Cowles brothers, who own the Minneapolis and Des Moines newspaper monopolies, know Ward's whole story and they once gave him the standard glamor treatment in "Look."

In his "Lenten Guidepost," Ward sprinkles himself over with new-mown lilies as a great philanthropist and a sinner who has reformed.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Easter Services Schedule Given

Woodstock, March 29 — The Rev. Harvey I. Todd has announced the schedule of services in observance of Easter and Holy Week. "The Christian message reaches its climax at Easter," the Rev. Mr. Todd said. "Only a few weeks ago we were greeting each other with gifts and a Merry Christmas, and then a little later it was Happy New Year. But Easter carries with it an atmosphere of hope and confidence in the message of the resurrection from the dead that comes to us, as it were, from the very Presence of the Living God through the Gospel message of our Lord and Saviour. At every grave where there is faith he stands as He stood at the grave of Lazarus with the declaration, 'I am the resurrection and the life.'"

The following is the schedule of services planned for the observance of the season at the Dutch Reformed Church in Woodstock:

Palm Sunday, April 3—9:30 a. m. Sunday school, 11 a. m. Reception of members and the Lord's Supper.

Monday, April 4 — 10 a. m. Half hour of worship each day to Saturday, April 9.

Wednesday, April 6 — 7:45 p. m. Union service in the Dutch Reformed Church showing a religious moving picture, "A Woman to Remember."

Thursday, April 7—7:45 p. m. Union service in the Lutheran Church with the sermon delivered by the Rev. Everett Herron, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Kingston.

Good Friday, April 8 — 7:45 p. m. Union service at the Methodist Church with the sermon delivered by the Rev. Arthur Landmusser of the First Methodist Church of Rensselaer.

Easter Sunday, April 10—9:30 a. m. Sunday school, 11 a. m. "The Empty Tomb."

Bishop Bentley To Be Guest Here

Woodstock, March 29 — St. Gregory's Episcopal Church of Woodstock will be honored by the presence of the Rt. Rev. John B. Bentley, DD, for the Easter service, Sunday, April 10, at 11:30 a. m. Bishop Bentley will celebrate Holy Communion and give the sermon. For many years Bishop of Alaska and now vice president of The National Council, New York, the ruling body of the Church, Bishop Bentley expressed a desire to serve a small mission rather than a large church at Easter.

In the words of Archdeacon George Bratt to the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, vicar of St. Gregory's, "As one of the top men in National Council, I want Bishop Bentley to see your work, to know that in the Diocese of New York a congregation can worship happily in a corncrib."

Services for Palm Sunday, April 3, will be by the Rev. Mr. Swezy at 4 p. m.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, district manager of the Kingston Social Security Administration Office, submits the following article on the new Social Security Law:

Jane Brown has been doing baby sitting and general housework for several of the women in her neighborhood for the last seven or eight years. However, she has never worked for any one woman oftener than one day per week. When she first started to do housework, Mrs. Brown knew that she did not come under the provisions of the Social Security Law.

In 1951 Mrs. Brown heard that certain household workers could be covered by social security beginning that year. She thought it would be a good idea to visit a social security office to see if she could come under the provisions of the law. Mrs. Brown was 55 years old in 1951, and, although she was a healthy person then, she realized that as she grew older it would probably be more difficult for her to do as much work. She was a widow and lived with a son, but she worried about what she would do when she was unable to work for her small income helped her remain financially independent.

WHEN SHE VISITED the social security office in 1951 to see if she was affected by the law, she learned that household workers were covered by social security only if they worked on at least 24 days in each calendar quarter of the year for any one employer, and were paid at least $50 cash wages during the quarter by that one employer. Since Mrs. Brown was paid $6 a day by each woman for whom she worked, she did receive over $50 in every quarter from each employer, but she never worked as many as 24 days for one person in any quarter. Therefore Mrs. Brown's household work was not covered by social security.

There were many people throughout the United States who, like Mrs. Brown did "day work" and were not able to participate in the Social Security program. Because of this the 1954 amendments to the law provided that any household employe who is paid at least $50 cash wages in a quarter by any one household employer is covered by social security. The 24-days-per quarter work test was dropped altogether.

THIS AMENDMENT brought Mrs. Brown under the social security law for the first time in 1955. Each woman who pays her $50 or more in cash wages during a calendar quarter is now an employer under social security. Mrs. Brown visited her social security district office to obtain a social security card. While she was at the office, she picked up copies of OASI-21, "Do You Have a Maid"? which she will give to each of the women for whom she is working. She learned at the district office that these booklets contain instructions for employers of household employes.

Mrs. Brown, like millions of fellow Americans in other occupations, will for the first time make social security tax contributions along with her employers to build old-age protection for herself under the social security program.

THE FIRST QUARTERLY report from housewives under the revised provision applying to domestics will be due for the period ending March 31 not later than April 30.

The Kingston District Office of the Social Security Administration located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., telephone number 7307, has an adequate supply of form OASI-21, which will be furnished upon request.

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—An auto body, rescued from a salvage lot is helping polio patients at Blodgett Memorial Hospital re-learn the little chores of daily life. The car is parked in the therapy room of the hospital. Patients learn to get in and out of it. They have started a collection of windshield stickers and have nicknamed the car "Phil." As one patient put it: "Even though Phil doesn't have a motor, it makes us feel we're getting somewhere."

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, district manager of the Kingston Social Security Administration Office, submits the following article on the new Social Security Law:

Jane Brown has been doing baby sitting and general housework for several of the women in her neighborhood for the last seven or eight years. However, she has never worked for any one woman oftener than one day per week. When she first started to do housework, Mrs. Brown knew that she did not come under the provisions of the Social Security Law.

In 1951 Mrs. Brown heard that certain household workers could be covered by social security beginning that year. She thought it would be a good idea to visit a social security office to see if she could come under the provisions of the law. Mrs. Brown was 55 years old in 1951, and, although she was a healthy person then, she realized that as she grew older it would probably be more difficult for her to do as much work. She was a widow and lived with a son, but she worried about what she would do when she was unable to work for her small income helped her remain financially independent.

WHEN SHE VISITED the social security office in 1951 to see if she was affected by the law, she learned that household workers were covered by social security only if they worked on at least 24 days in each calendar quarter of the year for any one employer, and were paid at least $50 cash wages during the quarter by that one employer. Since Mrs. Brown was paid $6 a day by each woman for whom she worked, she did receive over $50 in every quarter from each employer, but she never worked as many as 24 days for one person in any quarter. Therefore Mrs. Brown's household work was not covered by social security.

There were many people throughout the United States who, like Mrs. Brown did "day work" and were not able to participate in the Social Security program. Because of this the 1954 amendments to the law provided that any household employe who is paid at least $50 cash wages in a quarter by any one household employer is covered by social security. The 24-days-per quarter work test was dropped altogether.

THIS AMENDMENT brought Mrs. Brown under the social security law for the first time in 1955. Each woman who pays her $50 or more in cash wages during a calendar quarter is now an employer under social security. Mrs. Brown visited her social security district office to obtain a social security card. While she was at the office, she picked up copies of OASI-21, "Do You Have a Maid"? which she will give to each of the women for whom she is working. She learned at the district office that these booklets contain instructions for employers of household employes.

Mrs. Brown, like millions of fellow Americans in other occupations, will for the first time make social security tax contributions along with her employers to build old-age protection for herself under the social security program.

THE FIRST QUARTERLY report from housewives under the revised provision applying to domestics will be due for the period ending March 31 not later than April 30.

The Kingston District Office of the Social Security Administration located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., telephone number 7307, has an adequate supply of form OASI-21, which will be furnished upon request.

The oyster industry is worth about $30,000,000 a year.

Prelude to Transport

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—An auto body, rescued from a salvage lot is helping polio patients at Blodgett Memorial Hospital re-learn the little chores of daily life. The car is parked in the therapy room of the hospital. Patients learn to get in and out of it. They have started a collection of windshield stickers and have nicknamed the car "Phil." As one patient put it: "Even though Phil doesn't have a motor, it makes us feel we're getting somewhere."

In southern Idaho's olden days, sheep owners and farmers marked off their ranches by planting Lombardy poplars.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Reading about atomic energy being used for water transportation, I predict as every dreamer has a right to, that in the future, atomic energy will be used on our Hudson river for freight transportation, making it fast and reasonable, and perhaps even for passenger service. So let no one underestimate our Rondout creek harbor and Hudson river in the Ponckhockie, Rondout and Wilbur sections. Since the beginning of colonial history in the Hudson valley, some 300 years ago, large commercial enterprises have sprung up along its docks and will continue to do so. No matter how many businesses will leave for the hills of Kingston other new enterprises will see the value of the Kingston harbor. The downtown section of Kingston was substantially built of brick, Rosendale cement and Rondout Iron Works material. The past half century did little to those buildings that a little modernization cannot repair, if in the proper hands. Most of the business buildings in the Rondout section are built of brick and stone, that is back and front, not just wooden buildings, with brick false fronts. Some of the cornices are a work of art, such as the former Stock and Cordts building. We can even boast of a marble building on The Strand. Most of the brick in the buildings are still in excellent condition.

In Picturesque Ulster, printed some half a century ago, A. W. Hoffman wrote an article called "The Harbor of Rondout" which reads in part: "From the beginning the Hudson river has been the great natural highway connecting not only Kingston, but the country for many miles back of it, with the rest of the world, and the Rondout creek has been the lane through which this highway has been entered. Mr. Hoffman compared it to the Mississippi river during the bluestone discovery here in 1837, and the opening of the D and H canal in 1829 as to number of vessels going and coming from the Rondout harbor. As business grew, buildings were built of the best brick, bluestone, cement and wood. One still can see the fine wood panels, arches, windows and constructions of houses and buildings from those days.

Every spring I marvel at the Hudson river and creek from such locations as upper Cornell park. It is still as majestic as when the colonists began to build their homes here 300 years ago. I wonder how many folks noticed the strong stone wall around the ground which used to house the Rice Mansion corner Spring and Wurts streets which location I though would make a dream of a housing project for downtown. Another ideal location, which several readers mentioned to me is top of Hasbrouck Park, also overlooking the Hudson for many miles. The view, as most folks know is breath taking. Riverside Drive in New York city cannot boast of a finer location. To me a building lot is only worth what it can offer as a picturesque location. Reading about the many IBM students coming to Kingston and needing housing and rooms, and of course should be taken care of as honored guests. But let us not forget that our own Kingstonians, many born and brought up here are being moved out of their own location without having a better place to go, for which the housing project was intended. I wonder how many folks know that there are many single people, through widowhood and other reasons who desire single accommodations, nothing elaborate, just a small warm apartment and it is impossible to find anything. I understand housing projects do not take in single people. Especially elderly folks, who still are able and willing to hold a job, Kingstonians, I mean, should have some sort of preference, when housing projects are planned. Single folks have to have a place on this earth too.

A new era of confidence—with Living Insurance

How Equitable helps more families than ever achieve a growing self-reliance.

There is one thing Americans value most: personal independence.

They want to stand on their own two feet. And they want their wives and children to be able to do the same — always. The years ahead can look bright and secure to the man who plans for them in his insurance program.

During 1954, The Equitable spread an umbrella of protection over more families than ever before in its history. And, Equitable paid out more benefits than ever in family and retirement income, funds for children's education, medical, business and financial emergencies. This is Living Insurance at work!

Today The Equitable family numbers 8,200,000 men, women and children. The measure of their confidence in the future is shown in the annual statement below.

Behind these figures are people — like you and your neighbor — sharing the risks of life together.

Look at these figures a moment. They show double-duty dollars. These dollars protect millions of families — and at the same time help create jobs, produce goods and maintain our high standard of living. Invested at the rate of $22,000,000 a week — in farms, homes, business and industry — these dollars work for the benefit of the policyholder and the entire U. S. economy.

The Man from Equitable can bring a new era of confidence into your home. He can help you help yourself to a bigger portion of self-reliance — the Living Insurance way.

See the Man from Equitable — today!

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Reading about atomic energy being used for water transportation, I predict as every dreamer has a right to, that in the future, atomic energy will be used on our Hudson river for freight transportation, making it fast and reasonable, and perhaps even for passenger service. So let no one underestimate our Rondout creek harbor and Hudson river in the Ponckhockie, Rondout and Wilbur sections. Since the beginning of colonial history in the Hudson valley, some 300 years ago, large commercial enterprises have sprung up along its docks and will continue to do so. No matter how many businesses will leave for the hills of Kingston other new enterprises will see the value of the Kingston harbor. The downtown section of Kingston was substantially built of brick, Rosendale cement and Rondout Iron Works material. The past half century did little to those buildings that a little modernization cannot repair, if in the proper hands. Most of the business buildings in the Rondout section are built of brick and stone, that is back and front, not just wooden buildings, with brick false fronts. Some of the cornices are a work of art, such as the former Stock and Cordts building. We can even boast of a marble building on The Strand. Most of the brick in the buildings are still in excellent condition.

In Picturesque Ulster, printed some half a century ago, A. W. Hoffman wrote an article called "The Harbor of Rondout" which reads in part: "From the beginning the Hudson river has been the great natural highway connecting not only Kingston, but the country for many miles back of it, with the rest of the world, and the Rondout creek has been the lane through which this highway has been entered. Mr. Hoffman compared it to the Mississippi river during the bluestone discovery here in 1837, and the opening of the D and H canal in 1829 as to number of vessels going and coming from the Rondout harbor. As business grew, buildings were built of the best brick, bluestone, cement and wood. One still can see the fine wood panels, arches, windows and constructions of houses and buildings from those days.

Every spring I marvel at the Hudson river and creek from such locations as upper Cornell park. It is still as majestic as when the colonists began to build their homes here 300 years ago. I wonder how many folks noticed the strong stone wall around the ground which used to house the Rice Mansion corner Spring and Wurts streets which location I though would make a dream of a housing project for downtown. Another ideal location, which several readers mentioned to me is top of Hasbrouck Park, also overlooking the Hudson for many miles. The view, as most folks know is breath taking. Riverside Drive in New York city cannot boast of a finer location. To me a building lot is only worth what it can offer as a picturesque location. Reading about the many IBM students coming to Kingston and needing housing and rooms, and of course should be taken care of as honored guests. But let us not forget that our own Kingstonians, many born and brought up here are being moved out of their own location without having a better place to go, for which the housing project was intended. I wonder how many folks know that there are many single people, through widowhood and other reasons who desire single accommodations, nothing elaborate, just a small warm apartment and it is impossible to find anything. I understand housing projects do not take in single people. Especially elderly folks, who still are able and willing to hold a job, Kingstonians, I mean, should have some sort of preference, when housing projects are planned. Single folks have to have a place on this earth too.

A new era of confidence—with Living Insurance

How Equitable helps more families than ever achieve a growing self-reliance.

There is one thing Americans value most: personal independence.

They want to stand on their own two feet. And they want their wives and children to be able to do the same — always. The years ahead can look bright and secure to the man who plans for them in his insurance program.

During 1954, The Equitable spread an umbrella of protection over more families than ever before in its history. And, Equitable paid out more benefits than ever in family and retirement income, funds for children's education, medical, business and financial emergencies. This is Living Insurance at work!

Today The Equitable family numbers 8,200,000 men, women and children. The measure of their confidence in the future is shown in the annual statement below.

Behind these figures are people — like you and your neighbor — sharing the risks of life together.

Look at these figures a moment. They show double-duty dollars. These dollars protect millions of families — and at the same time help create jobs, produce goods and maintain our high standard of living. Invested at the rate of $22,000,000 a week — in farms, homes, business and industry — these dollars work for the benefit of the policyholder and the entire U. S. economy.

The Man from Equitable can bring a new era of confidence into your home. He can help you help yourself to a bigger portion of self-reliance — the Living Insurance way.

See the Man from Equitable — today!

CUB PACK 9, BSA, transformed its meeting place at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer into a colorful setting for the Knights of Yore theme for March Monday night. Den exhibit tables featured model castles complete with drawbridge and moat, catapults, and knights in shining armor.

Following the grand march of Cub Scouts in various types of handmade armor, a round table ceremony was held to recognize new members of the pack. Cubmaster Bob Elliott, assisted by Den 2 in the candlelighting ceremony, formally inducted new Bobcats Gerard Buboltz, Andrew Gilday, Raymond Krom, Jr., Gordon Mattice, William Reynolds, and Karl Tienken. During the game period, the young knights took part in a jousting target tournament until their horse collapsed from over work. A skit entitled The Reluctant Knight and the Magic Herb enacted by Den 1, provided comedy and a morale for small brothers hopeful of attaining knighthood.

Refreshments were served by mothers of Den 2 and Den 3 at the close of the meeting.

Sutton Case Is Settled Before Trial Concludes

After the actions had been partially tried settlement was reached Tuesday in the three actions brought in Supreme Court by Stephen H. Kearney, Robert Kearney and Mrs. Charles Sutton against the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, actions to recover damages for the injuries suffered by the Kearneys and for the death of Charles Sutton. The accident happened on June 14, 1953 while the men were engaged in erecting a TV aerial at the Sutton home in Ruby. In some manner contact was made with a high tension line and Sutton was fatally injured and his brothers-in-law injured.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Mrs. Sutton, who brought an action to recover for her husband's death. John E. Egan by John Larkin appeared for Stephen H. Kearney and Guido Napoletano appeared for Frank Campochiaro, counsel for Robert Kearney. Stanley B. Johnson appeared for the defendants.

national police which it controls.

The society, which has grown rich from its monopoly of local gambling and vice, also had controlled the 4,000-man police force in the Saigon and Cholon Prefecture but Diem ordered it taken over by the national army on Monday. This stemmed from the Binh Xuyen's recent alliance with the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects—which also have their own private armies—in a "United Front" to overthrow the premier.

The national army took over part of the Prefectural police headquarters without opposition but Binh Xuyen troops remained in some of the buildings. These soldiers were driven out in the fighting before dawn.

The United Front announced today its private armies were starting a blockade of Saigon, whose two million people depend on rice imports from the rich Mekong river delta surrounding it. Should the capital's supplies begin to dry up, new fighting is sure to break out.

Installment Conscience

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—An unidentified thief has been repaying Jewel Chastain, manager of a service station here, on the installment plan. Chastain has received three "payments" from the conscience-stricken individual who claims to have taken $85 from the station's cash register in February, 1949. All three letters, unsigned, have carried Omaha postmarks. The latest remittance was for $55 and apparently cleaned up the debt. "I really appreciate his sending it back, and I want him to know it," said Chastain.

Sirens Silenced

Chicago (AP)—Police Commissioner Tim O'Connor ordered sirens disconnected on 80 motor vehicle enforcement cars after the traffic accident division reported the cars averaged 12 accidents a month. Policemen now will be expected to drive more cautiously and not run through as many red lights. O'Connor said the siren does more harm than good because it warns criminals that police are coming.

small cells in it are barren and confinement represents the most extreme punishment given violators of prison rules.

The upper two floors of the building house segregation or solitary confinement cells.

Newsmen who inspected the jail-within-the-prison after the revolt ended found it a shambles, with furnishings and fixtures wrecked.

The revolt began at 10:30 a. m. Sunday when some of the 12 convicts in the maximum security building grabbed the guards and promised death to the captives if the building were rushed.

ABOUT 18 HOURS LATER, the rebels turned out three of the convicts. One of the three, it developed today, actually was to have been a go-between and mediator.

Polite notes twice were exchanged between the prisoners and the governor.

The prisoners listed nine grievances. In effect, they were requests for reforms in the handling of prisoners confined to the prison "jail."

The governor said some of the demands are "reasonable" and some of the changes already have been planned.

But Gov. Anderson insisted that guards would have to be released before he would discuss anything.

The holdouts agreed to accept the punishment prescribed by the governor, and the revolt ended.

Jurors Will Meet Next Monday Night

The regular monthly meeting of the Grand Juror's Association of Ulster county will be held next Monday at 8 p. m. at the Court House, Wall street.

Many subjects of interest to all jurors will be discussed.

Several applications for membership in the association also will be voted upon at this meeting.

Labor Chieftains Drop Bevan Move

London, March 30 (AP)—British Labor party chieftains today dropped a move to expel left-winger Aneurin Bevan. They obtained assurances from the fiery Welshman he would toe the official party line in the future.

The National Executive—high command of the party—after a three-hour meeting accepted Bevan's promise to behave.

This was the first step by the party to patch up differences in the face of a general election possibly this summer or fall.

OFFICIALLY BEVAN is still on the blacklist of the parliamentary Labor party, but his reinstatement now appeared only a matter of formality.

The 57-year-old rebel was ousted from Labor ranks in Parliament two weeks ago on charges of disloyalty for openly criticizing party leader Clement Attlee on the floor of the House of Commons.

THREE ULSTER COUNTY women had hooked articles on exhibit during Farm and Home Week, March 21-25 in Ithaca. The rugs were hooked using designs that their owners created themselves. They were exhibited with other hooked rugs and mats made by homemakers in the state. They were made by Mrs. Harry Strober, and Mrs. Earl Haley of Ellenville and Mrs. Philip Coletti of West Shokan.

DURING THE WEEK of March 28 through April 7, there will be a display of decorated eggs for Easter at the Home Bureau office, 220 Wall street.

Everyone interested in seeing the display is invited to come to the office. Many different materials have been used to decorate the eggs. Each egg has a different facial expression and a different kind of hat or bonnet.

The gaily decorated eggs were made by two members of the Bloomington Home Bureau unit, Mrs. Ira Ingram and Mrs. Francis Don.

LAKE KATRINE Unit will meet April 6 at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lester Felton, Neighborhood road in Lake Katrine.

Why We Say--
DOUBLE JOINTED

When people have, what are called, "double joints," it means that the ligaments at their bone connections are slightly looser allowing the limbs to be bent in many directions. Acrobats, who are called "double jointed," usually have permanently stretched their ligaments.

national police which it controls.

The society, which has grown rich from its monopoly of local gambling and vice, also had controlled the 4,000-man police force in the Saigon and Cholon Prefecture but Diem ordered it taken over by the national army on Monday. This stemmed from the Binh Xuyen's recent alliance with the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects—which also have their own private armies—in a "United Front" to overthrow the premier.

The national army took over part of the Prefectural police headquarters without opposition but Binh Xuyen troops remained in some of the buildings. These soldiers were driven out in the fighting before dawn.

The United Front announced today its private armies were starting a blockade of Saigon, whose two million people depend on rice imports from the rich Mekong river delta surrounding it. Should the capital's supplies begin to dry up, new fighting is sure to break out.

Installment Conscience

Lincoln, Neb. (AP)—An unidentified thief has been repaying Jewel Chastain, manager of a service station here, on the installment plan. Chastain has received three "payments" from the conscience-stricken individual who claims to have taken $85 from the station's cash register in February, 1949. All three letters, unsigned, have carried Omaha postmarks. The latest remittance was for $55 and apparently cleaned up the debt. "I really appreciate his sending it back, and I want him to know it," said Chastain.

Sirens Silenced

Chicago (AP)—Police Commissioner Tim O'Connor ordered sirens disconnected on 80 motor vehicle enforcement cars after the traffic accident division reported the cars averaged 12 accidents a month. Policemen now will be expected to drive more cautiously and not run through as many red lights. O'Connor said the siren does more harm than good because it warns criminals that police are coming.

Don't Bat Around

Bonita, Calif. (AP)—Signs erected during a traffic safety program read: "This is God's country; don't drive through it like a bat out of hell."

Arizona's Grand Canyon has about 180 species of birds, 60 species of mammals, 25 of reptiles, and five of amphibians.

Penitentiary

small cells in it are barren and confinement represents the most extreme punishment given violators of prison rules.

The upper two floors of the building house segregation or solitary confinement cells.

Newsmen who inspected the jail-within-the-prison after the revolt ended found it a shambles, with furnishings and fixtures wrecked.

The revolt began at 10:30 a. m. Sunday when some of the 12 convicts in the maximum security building grabbed the guards and promised death to the captives if the building were rushed.

ABOUT 18 HOURS LATER, the rebels turned out three of the convicts. One of the three, it developed today, actually was to have been a go-between and mediator.

Polite notes twice were exchanged between the prisoners and the governor.

The prisoners listed nine grievances. In effect, they were requests for reforms in the handling of prisoners confined to the prison "jail."

The governor said some of the demands are "reasonable" and some of the changes already have been planned.

But Gov. Anderson insisted that guards would have to be released before he would discuss anything.

The holdouts agreed to accept the punishment prescribed by the governor, and the revolt ended.

Jurors Will Meet Next Monday Night

The regular monthly meeting of the Grand Juror's Association of Ulster county will be held next Monday at 8 p. m. at the Court House, Wall street.

Many subjects of interest to all jurors will be discussed.

Several applications for membership in the association also will be voted upon at this meeting.

Thomas J. Murphy, president, requests a full attendance of members.

Labor Chieftains Drop Bevan Move

London, March 30 (AP)—British Labor party chieftains today dropped a move to expel left-winger Aneurin Bevan. They obtained assurances from the fiery Welshman he would toe the official party line in the future.

The National Executive—high command of the party—after a three-hour meeting accepted Bevan's promise to behave.

This was the first step by the party to patch up differences in the face of a general election possibly this summer or fall.

OFFICIALLY BEVAN is still on the blacklist of the parliamentary Labor party, but his reinstatement now appeared only a matter of formality.

The 57-year-old rebel was ousted from Labor ranks in Parliament two weeks ago on charges of disloyalty for openly criticizing party leader Clement Attlee on the floor of the House of Commons.

Home Bureau

HIGH FALLS Unit will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck March 31 at 8 p. m. The meeting is being held a week early due to Holy Week next week. All members and guests are invited.

THREE ULSTER COUNTY women had hooked articles on exhibit during Farm and Home Week, March 21-25 in Ithaca. The rugs were hooked using designs that their owners created themselves. They were exhibited with other hooked rugs and mats made by homemakers in the state. They were made by Mrs. Harry Strober, and Mrs. Earl Haley of Ellenville and Mrs. Philip Coletti of West Shokan.

DURING THE WEEK of March 28 through April 7, there will be a display of decorated eggs for Easter at the Home Bureau office, 220 Wall street.

Everyone interested in seeing the display is invited to come to the office. Many different materials have been used to decorate the eggs. Each egg has a different facial expression and a different kind of hat or bonnet.

The gaily decorated eggs were made by two members of the Bloomington Home Bureau unit, Mrs. Ira Ingram and Mrs. Francis Don.

LAKE KATRINE Unit will meet April 6 at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lester Felton, Neighborhood road in Lake Katrine.

When people have, what are called, "double joints," it means that the ligaments at their bone connections are slightly looser allowing the limbs to be bent in many directions. Acrobats, who are called "double jointed," usually have permanently stretched their ligaments.

Deceptive Play Saves the Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

West opened the queen of clubs, and South refused the first trick. This was, of course, a routine play that would help if East happened to have only two clubs.

West continued with the jack of clubs, and South took the ace. South was in danger of losing two clubs, a diamond, and a trump. What could he do to be saved?

After taking the ace of clubs, South drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king. He had been hoping to drop the doubleton queen-jack, but there was no such luck.

The normal plant, at this stage, was to run the spades in the hope of discarding a club. This would work if the player with the last trump also had three or more spades.

If South had gone through with this plan in the normal way he would have lost his game contract. East would have trumped the third round of spades and would have taken a club trick at once. He would then lead a diamond, and the defenders would eventually get a diamond trick to defeat the contract.

South gave himself an extra chance in the play of the spades by leading the ace of spades first, followed by a low spade to dummy's king. He then led the jack of spades from dummy.

This made it look as though South had no more spades left. East didn't want to waste his high trump and allow South to discard a loser, so he discarded a club instead of ruffing the third spade.

The discard was exactly what South had been hoping for. Declarer won the third spade with the queen, entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and led the last spade. East could ruff, of course, but South got rid of his last club and thus assured the contract.

Why do we offer 2 TYPES of Checking Accounts—Regular and ThriftiCheck ?

There is a good reason why we offer both Regular Checking Account and ThriftiCheck Account services to our customers.

Some people draw many checks, make frequent deposits, keep substantial sums in their accounts and give the bank's name for credit reference. A Regular Checking Account is best for them because they ordinarily maintain an account balance large enough to cover operating expenses and consequently there is little or no charge for this kind of service.

Others keep less money in their account — some have just enough to take care of the checks they draw — and the number of checks is relatively few. These customers have a ThriftiCheck Account which normally costs only pennies per check.

Both Regular Checking and ThriftiCheck Account customers enjoy the advantages of convenience and safety.

Here you will find whichever checking account service is best for your own particular personal needs. May we tell you more about these services?

Violent Explosion Precedes Big Fire

New York, March 30 (AP)—A "violent explosion" preceded the four-alarm fire which caused $75,000 worth of damage in the Pelham Heath Inn, a Bronx cabaret, early yesterday, Chief Fire Marshal Martin Scott said late in the day.

Scott said the blast occurred in an unused dining room of the two-story structure at Eastchester road and Pelham parkway.

He said the Palmar Corp., which runs the inn, held $40,000 worth of insurance on the fixtures, food, and liquor on the premises.

Three persons were in the night spot when the blaze began at 11 p. m. Monday night. Among them were Adael Reitzes, president of the Palmar Corp., who was serving as bartender. He tried to fight the fire with an extinguisher before sounding the alarm.

Scott said his investigation is continuing.

Chambersburg, Pa. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Dennis Summers was puzzled when he found a dead monkey wedged in the branches of a tree. It had died of exposure. The police were mystified too. They had no reports of a missing monkey and a check of residents known to own monkey pets showed that all were safe. No one could offer an explanation.

Spray Spruce Trees in April

Spray your spruce trees now to prevent an attack by spruce gall aphids this year, recommends Dr. Howard Miller, extension entomologist at the State University of New York College of Forestry, in Syracuse. Spraying is best in early April when the weather is warm, before buds open.

SPRUCE GALLS, caused by plant lice, destroy both the health and beauty of common ornamental spruces. Galls will curl, stunt, and kill new growth. Continued infestation will make spruce more susceptible to attacks by other insects and plant diseases.

Newly hatched aphids feeding at the base of spruce needles produce the galls. This feeding enlarges plant tissue which finally surrounds the developing insects. Once they are inside the galls, spraying is useless.

Two dormant spray formulas are suggested.

One includes lime sulphur with one part to nine parts of water. The other is made of one gallon of miscible oil to 25 gallons of water. These sprays especially the oil mixture, may temporarily destroy the bloom or waxy coating on the needles, but the original color returns in a short time.

LIME SULPHUR should not be used near painted surfaces, which are discolored when in contact with the chemical.

A leaflet "Spruce Gall Aphids" which gives detailed information about the spraying may be obtained without charge by writing to the Department of Forest Extension, State University of New York College of Forestry, Syracuse 10, N. Y.

DEMONSTRATION OF GEIGER COUNTER is given as part of Civil Defense course at Kingston High School vocational building by (seated) Boyd Miller, science teacher at the school and Morris Nussbaum, chemist at the City Laboratory. Observing are H. I. Etchells, Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen; Bowman H. Owen, Town of Hardenburgh; Leonard Jamilkowski, Town of Gardiner; Larry Campanella, Saugerties; P. Trumpler, Ashokan, with the New York City Board of Water Supply; Robert F. Longfield, New Paltz; Robert V. Cahill, Sprague Electric Co., this city.

'S. A. Napoleon'

Several iron ore discoveries in the Lake Superior district followed exposures seen under the roots of fallen trees.

Named for Pope

The name poplin comes from papeline, a fabric woven of silk at Avignon, France, in the 1400s. The new fabric was named to honor the Pope, who reigned in France when it first was woven.

There is evidence that beer was brewed by Egyptians of the Fourth Dynasty, some 3000 years before the Christian era.

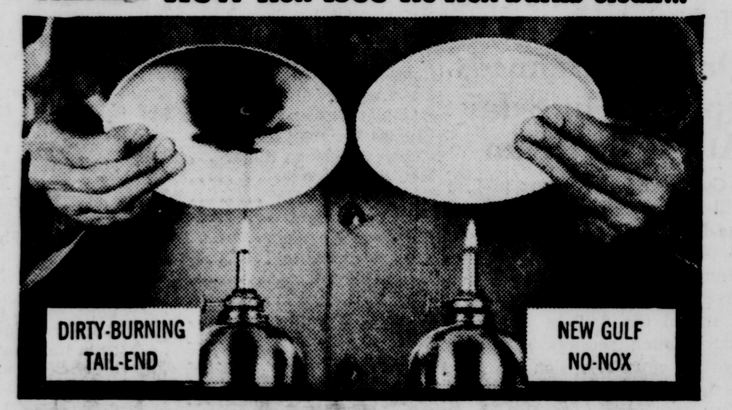
HERE'S HOW New 1955 No-Nox burns clean...

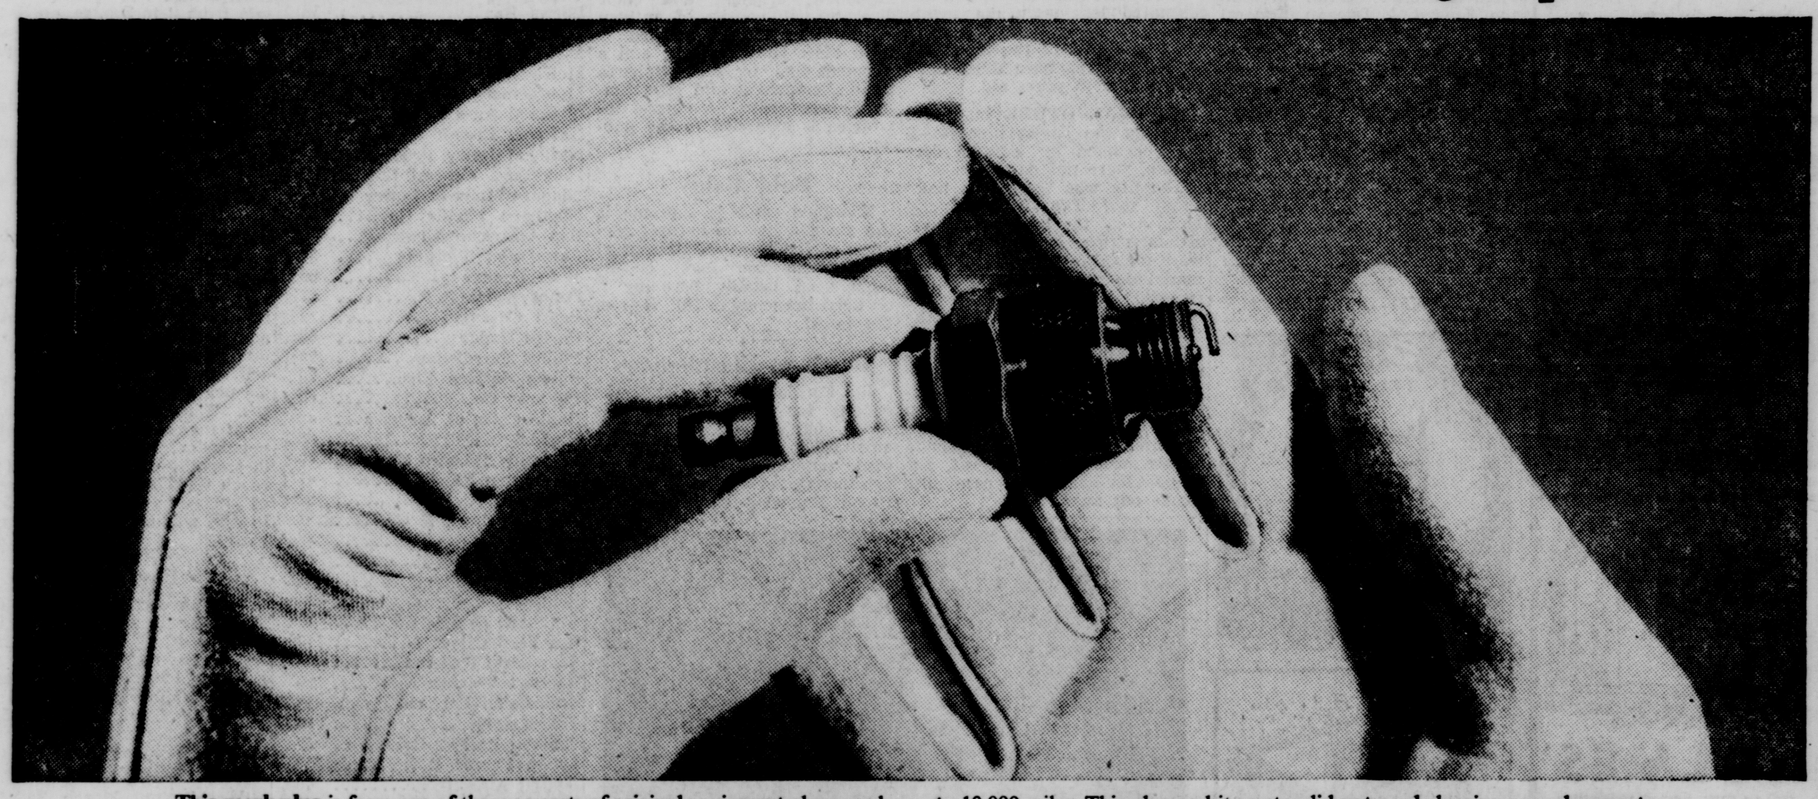


This lamp test shows what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery—to bring you new, clean-burning Gulf NO-NOX.

HERE'S WHY New 1955 No-Nox burns clean...

This tar-like, gummy residue is what's left after evaporating a single gallon of "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline. There's at least this much in a tankful of ordinary gasoline.

HERE'S WHAT New 1955 No-Nox does for engine parts...



This spark plug is from one of the many sets of original equipment plugs used in Gulf test fleet cars. Normally, plugs need cleaning or replacement after 5,000 to 10,000 miles. This plug and its mates did not need cleaning or replacement after 15,000 miles with new NO-NOX.

what's more...No gasoline—no, not a single one—has higher octane than...

New 1955 GULF NO-NOX

GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

• We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.

• It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest—in power, in performance, in engine protection.

• This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

Get the full advantage of all this octane power. Fill up now with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference in power that really works for you mile after mile. Right from the start, you'll get these lasting benefits:

• More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.

• Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.

• Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts . . . fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

• No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

It's super-refined...to burn clean!

Mystery Monkey

Chambersburg, Pa. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Dennis Summers was puzzled when he found a dead monkey wedged in the branches of a tree. It had died of exposure. The police were mystified too. They had no reports of a missing monkey and a check of residents known to own monkey pets showed that all were safe. No one could offer an explanation.

Spray Spruce Trees in April

Spray your spruce trees now to prevent an attack by spruce gall aphids this year, recommends Dr. Howard Miller, extension entomologist at the State University of New York College of Forestry, in Syracuse. Spraying is best in early April when the weather is warm, before buds open.

SPRUCE GALLS, caused by plant lice, destroy both the health and beauty of common ornamental spruces. Galls will curl, stunt, and kill new growth. Continued infestation will make spruce more susceptible to attacks by other insects and plant diseases.

Newly hatched aphids feeding at the base of spruce needles produce the galls. This feeding enlarges plant tissue which finally surrounds the developing insects. Once they are inside the galls, spraying is useless.

Two dormant spray formulas are suggested.

One includes lime sulphur with one part to nine parts of water. The other is made of one gallon of miscible oil to 25 gallons of water. These sprays especially the oil mixture, may temporarily destroy the bloom or waxy coating on the needles, but the original color returns in a short time.

LIME SULPHUR should not be used near painted surfaces, which are discolored when in contact with the chemical.

A leaflet "Spruce Gall Aphids" which gives detailed information about the spraying may be obtained without charge by writing to the Department of Forest Extension, State University of New York College of Forestry, Syracuse 10, N. Y.

Named for Pope

The name poplin comes from papeline, a fabric woven of silk at Avignon, France, in the 1400s. The new fabric was named to honor the Pope, who reigned in France when it first was woven.

There is evidence that beer was brewed by Egyptians of the Fourth Dynasty, some 3000 years before the Christian era.

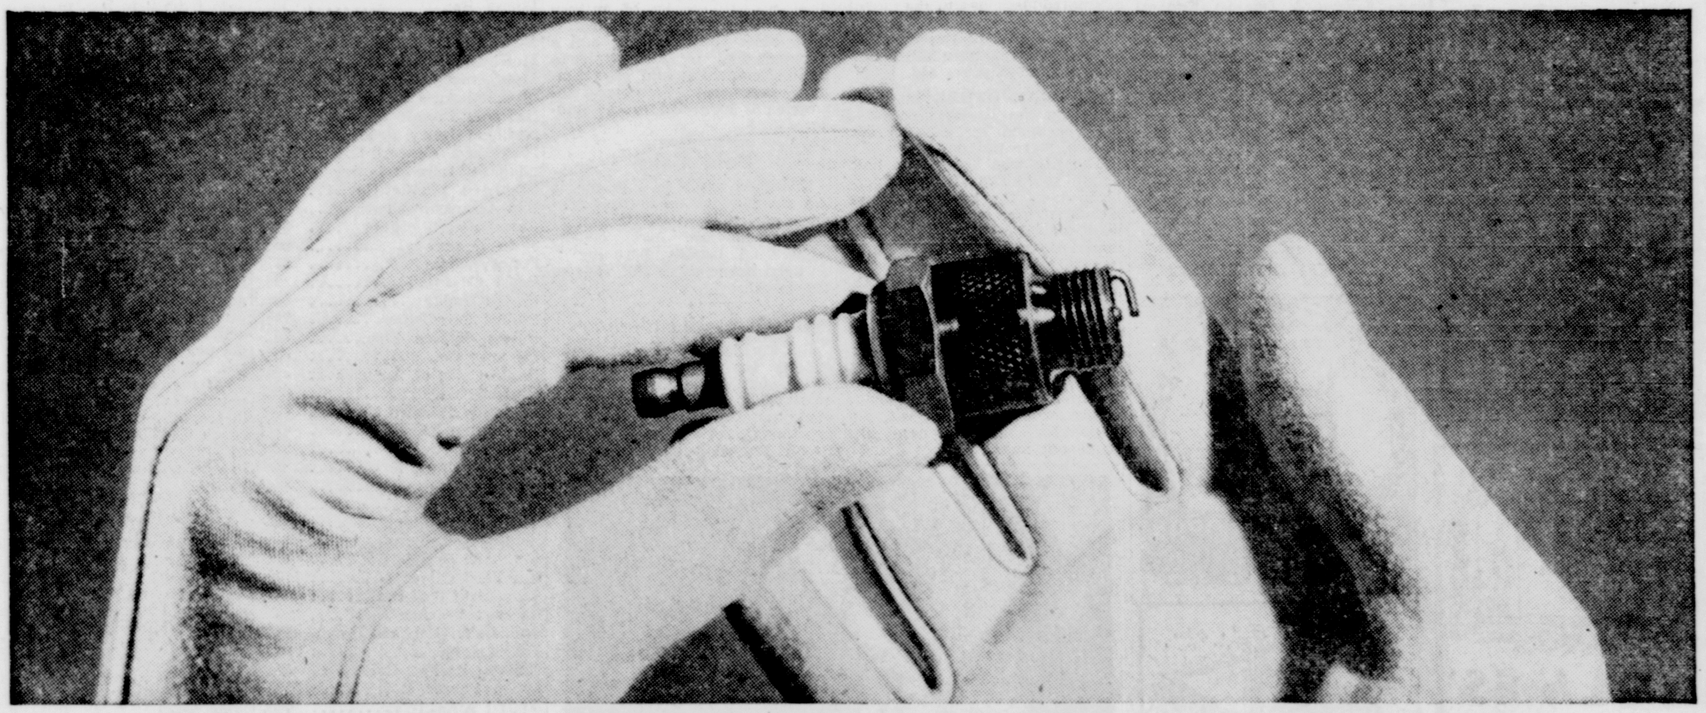
HERE'S HOW New 1955 No-Nox burns clean...

This lamp test shows what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery—to bring you new, clean-burning Gulf NO-NOX.

HERE'S WHY New 1955 No-Nox burns clean...

This tar-like, gummy residue is what's left after evaporating a single gallon of "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline. There's at least this much in a tankful of ordinary gasoline.

HERE'S WHAT New 1955 No-Nox does for engine parts...



This spark plug is from one of the many sets of original equipment plugs used in Gulf test fleet cars. Normally, plugs need cleaning or replacement after 5,000 to 10,000 miles. This plug and its mates did not need cleaning or replacement after 15,000 miles with new NO-NOX.

what's more...No gasoline—no, not a single one—has higher octane than...

New 1955 GULF NO-NOX

GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

- We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.
- It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest—in power, in performance, in engine protection.
- This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

Get the full advantage of all this octane power. Fill up now with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference in power that really works for you mile after mile. Right from the start, you'll get these lasting benefits:

- More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.
- Extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts . . . fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

It's super-refined...to burn clean! The '55 gasoline for all high-compression engines

Mrs. T. A. Feeney Dies at Her Home

Mrs. Rose Woods Feeney, 82, of 49 West Chestnut street, wife of Thomas A. Feeney, one of the best-known boat builders along the Hudson valley and in New York city, died at her home this morning after a long illness.

Mrs. Feeney, born in Honesdale, Pa., moved to this city when a very young child, when the Woods family name was identified with the transportation business on the old Delaware & Hudson Canal. She had a vivid memory of events that transpired while that man-made waterway was the main artery of trade between old Rondout and Honesdale. Her recollections of the canal, which she told very colorfully, made her one of the sources sought out by those interested in its history.

It was the canal that gave the Feeney family the start that has made the name one of the most prominent in the field of boat building, her husband having operated barges on it prior to starting construction yards that turned out wooden craft and later steel vessels.

Boats built and operated by the Feeneys can be found plying the various waterways of the state, the Hudson river, New York harbor, the New York State Barge Canal and the Great Lakes.

Mrs. Feeney is survived, besides her husband, Thomas A. Feeney, president of Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp. of 615 Abeel street, by two sons, Bernard A. Feeney and Thomas J. Feeney, associated with their father in business; three daughters, the Misses Margaret Feeney, a teacher at St. Mary's Parochial School; Marion G., a teacher at No. 6 Public School and Rose Marie of the Ulster County Welfare Department; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral from her home, Saturday at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

It Was 86 in 1945

March continued today acting in character, but 10 years ago, by the records, it was a mild one at this time. March 29, 1945 brought a high of 86 degrees, and the temperature this date, was 72. Today at 1 p. m. it was 55 and the overnight low was 32 at 5 a. m. The mercury also hit a 70 a year ago yesterday, but on this date, 1954, the high was only 40 and the low was a wintry 26, the city engineer's office reported.

Fires Are Reported

The Mt. Marion-Ruby fire company was called out to a brush fire at 12:35 p. m., today in Ruby. The Cottekill company was called out at 1:15 p. m., to an automobile fire in Cottekill. Details were not available at Freeman press time.

Port Ewen Barn Razed by Fire On Taylor Farm

A large two-story barn on the old Taylor farm on the west side of Route 9W, just south of the trailer camp, Port Ewen, burned to the ground late this morning.

Deputy Fire Chief Harry C. Jump Jr., said the fire apparently started as a grass fire, somewhere on the Clay road, just to the north, burned over a knoll, and set fire to the undersiding of the barn.

THE FIRST CALL reporting the fire came at 11:20 a. m. The hook and ladder truck and a pumper from the Port Ewen Fire Department were dispatched.

Jump said the barn, which had a cellar and hayloft, contained some farm implements. The nature of these implements and the estimated loss were not available.

One resident of the area said he believed the barn must have been about 75 years old.

SEVERAL OTHER buildings, including the Taylor homestead, now occupied by Edward McBroom, were not damaged.

The fire was "good and hot," Jump told The Freeman. By 11:55 a. m. the barn was down, although three streams of water were played on it. The fire had made too much headway to be stopped. Two hydrants in the neighborhood were used by the fire department.

Chief Edward Mains and Deputy Chief Hubert DuBois were still at the scene early this afternoon, supervising the wetting down of debris. Jump said two or three lengths of hose and a nozzle would be left at the scene for use in case fire broke out again.

Death to Blasphemers

By the law of Scotland, the penalty for blasphemy was death, but by an act of 1825, amended in 1837, blasphemy was made punishable by fine or imprisonment or both, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

MEMORY LANE—Living her life over again, Mrs. C. W. Massey, Jr., of Ft. Worth, Tex., visits daughter, Deberah, in third grade. Mrs. Massey attended third grade in the same room 19 years ago. But there is much change, at that. Blackboards are green, furniture has been revolutionized. Other things change, too. "They used to call me 'cat-soup' and I had to beat their heads in," says mother. Says Deberah: "We don't do things like that." Mother's whispered comment: "I think we had more fun than they do."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 30 (AP)—The stock market declined moderately today with atomic stocks getting the bulk of attention from both buyers and sellers.

By far the greatest number of changes was covered by a point, but the extremes ran from 11 points lower to 5 points higher.

Trading mounted rapidly under the impact of special situations and hit a pace around three million shares for the day. Yesterday's market accounted for 2,770,000 shares with prices slightly higher.

Bath Iron Works created a first hour sensation. It gained 15¾ on Monday and Tuesday in the midst of renewed rumors of merger plans. Last night the rumor was denied by the company.

CHINA REDS SEEK COASTAL CONTROL—By seizing Nationalist-held off-shore islands, the Chinese Reds now control their own coast from Shanghai to Foochow for the first time since 1949. Important port cities like Haimen, Wenchow and Foochow have no rail links with the rest of China. Road links are sketchy. Therefore the ports have always been supplied by coastal ships from Shanghai on the north to Hong Kong, far to the south. They had to run the Nationalist blockade, based on the off-shore islands. However, since the Nationalist evacuations, Chinese Red ships have swarmed into these harbors. The only major off-shore islands left to the Nationalists are the Matsus and Quemoy. Military build-up opposite the Matsus indicates Reds may be preparing all-out assault on them.

Mrs. T. A. Feeney Dies at Her Home

Mrs. Rose Woods Feeney, 82, of 49 West Chestnut street, wife of Thomas A. Feeney, one of the best-known boat builders along the Hudson valley and in New York city, died at her home this morning after a long illness.

Mrs. Feeney, born in Honesdale, Pa., moved to this city when a very young child, when the Woods family name was identified with the transportation business on the old Delaware & Hudson Canal. She had a vivid memory of events that transpired while that man-made waterway was the main artery of trade between old Rondout and Honesdale. Her recollections of the canal, which she told very colorfully, made her one of the sources sought out by those interested in its history.

It was the canal that gave the Feeney family the start that has made the name one of the most prominent in the field of boat building, her husband having operated barges on it prior to starting construction yards that turned out wooden craft and later steel vessels.

Boats built and operated by the Feeneys can be found plying the various waterways of the state, the Hudson river, New York harbor, the New York State Barge Canal and the Great Lakes.

Mrs. Feeney is survived, besides her husband, Thomas A. Feeney, president of Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp. of 615 Abeel street, by two sons, Bernard A. Feeney and Thomas J. Feeney, associated with their father in business; three daughters, the Misses Margaret Feeney, a teacher at St. Mary's Parochial School; Marion G., a teacher at No. 6 Public School and Rose Marie of the Ulster County Welfare Department; 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral from her home, Saturday at 9:30 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

It Was 86 in 1945

March continued today acting in character, but 10 years ago, by the records, it was a mild one at this time. March 29, 1945 brought a high of 86 degrees, and the temperature this date, was 72. Today at 1 p. m. it was 55 and the overnight low was 32 at 5 a. m. The mercury also hit a 70 a year ago yesterday, but on this date, 1954, the high was only 40 and the low was a wintry 26, the city engineer's office reported.

Fires Are Reported

The Mt. Marion-Ruby fire company was called out to a brush fire at 12:35 p. m., today in Ruby. The Cottekill company was called out at 1:15 p. m., to an automobile fire in Cottekill. Details were not available at Freeman press time.

Port Ewen Barn Razed by Fire On Taylor Farm

A large two-story barn on the old Taylor farm on the west side of Route 9W, just south of the trailer camp, Port Ewen, burned to the ground late this morning.

Deputy Fire Chief Harry C. Jump Jr., said the fire apparently started as a grass fire, somewhere on the Clay road, just to the north, burned over a knoll, and set fire to the undersiding of the barn.

THE FIRST CALL reporting the fire came at 11:20 a. m. The hook and ladder truck and a pumper from the Port Ewen Fire Department were dispatched.

Jump said the barn, which had a cellar and hayloft, contained some farm implements. The nature of these implements and the estimated loss were not available.

One resident of the area said he believed the barn must have been about 75 years old.

SEVERAL OTHER buildings, including the Taylor homestead, now occupied by Edward McBroom, were not damaged.

The fire was "good and hot," Jump told The Freeman. By 11:55 a. m. the barn was down, although three streams of water were played on it. The fire had made too much headway to be stopped. Two hydrants in the neighborhood were used by the fire department.

Chief Edward Mains and Deputy Chief Hubert DuBois were still at the scene early this afternoon, supervising the wetting down of debris. Jump said two or three lengths of hose and a nozzle would be left at the scene for use in case fire broke out again.

Death to Blasphemers

By the law of Scotland, the penalty for blasphemy was death, but by an act of 1825, amended in 1837, blasphemy was made punishable by fine or imprisonment or both, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

MEMORY LANE—Living her life over again, Mrs. C. W. Massey, Jr., of Ft. Worth, Tex., visits daughter, Deberah, in third grade. Mrs. Massey attended third grade in the same room 19 years ago. But there is much change, at that. Blackboards are green, furniture has been revolutionized. Other things change, too. "They used to call me 'cat-soup' and I had to beat their heads in," says mother. Says Deberah: "We don't do things like that." Mother's whispered comment: "I think we had more fun than they do."

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 30 (AP)—The stock market declined moderately today with atomic stocks getting the bulk of attention from both buyers and sellers.

By far the greatest number of changes was covered by a point, but the extremes ran from 11 points lower to 5 points higher.

Trading mounted rapidly under the impact of special situations and hit a pace around three million shares for the day. Yesterday's market accounted for 2,770,000 shares with prices slightly higher.

Bath Iron Works created a first hour sensation. It gained 15¾ on Monday and Tuesday in the midst of renewed rumors of merger plans. Last night the rumor was denied by the company.

ditions involved in my ward that call for vast study, extensive surveys and other items of engineering, which have been neglected in the particular project on which you gentlemen are to cast your votes."

THE ALDERMAN NOTED that he had previously given 42 reasons why it should be rejected, and he asked "that each alderman give the project due consideration in all respects, especially from the standpoint of economy."

His estimates, he said, "checked by an engineer," indicated that "the project would cost $135,026 to start and operate for a year." Proponents, he said estimated $33,617, a difference of $101,409." This, he charged, was "a staggering figure, when we remember that our taxpayers will have to foot the bill."

He continued: "It behooves each alderman to study figures as they are presented. In this case, it could be that they are from the same source that furnished estimates on enlarging our city incinerator. This body voted approval of $50,000 for the project. Then there was a request for $10,000 more. As matters stand, the city has only the semblance of a foundation, which is being covered at present with rubbish and fill at the dump in the 13th ward."

Perry said he felt "the same department heads in charge of construction could make the same mistakes, and costly ones at that, in trying to reclaim the swampland, a project entirely new to them."

"They are inexperienced in this field of engineering, it would seem." Perry said, "and the whole enterprise could be a heavy blow to our taxpayers. It must be remembered that for every $30,000 added to the city's expenses, the tax rate goes up $1 per thousand."

THE ALDERMAN NOTED that he voted to close the Summer street dump, and when residents of the second ward opposed plans for a market, "I voted according to their wishes —It is my contention that we must be abide by the will of the people." He asked the aldermen to consider the large fifth ward turnout at the hearing on the landfill proposal, and to "give due consideration to the plea made by more than 400 signers to abandon plans for the project."

Perry said he felt that because of the long, drawn out, meetings and unfavorable sentiment, that it should be voted down "for the good of the taxpayers, and, to relieve the tense feeling throughout the fifth ward among the people who are mainly concerned, and who stand to be hurt by it."

PERRY WAS GIVEN privilege of the floor after the opening roll call and after City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer read Mayor Stang's letter announcing appointment of Richard V. Roth, 15 Dunneman avenue, as successor to Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward alderman.

After introduction of Roth, Alderman-at-large Kelly said. "I know that the mayor has made a fine choice in the appointment of Mr. Roth as alderman of the 12th ward, and I know he will carry on as well as his predecessor."

It was revealed as a committee recess was called, that an offer had been made by Steven Smith, of 72 Glen street, to sell to the city a 46-acre tract in the town of Ulster for $10,000.

The land is off the East Chester street by-pass in an area east of the Van Kleeck property, but Supervisor Percy Bush, town of Ulster, who was at the meeting, said he had informed the finance committee that he was opposed to the location of a Kingston landfill project anywhere in the township.

THE SUPERVISOR SAID he felt that "the city should take care of its own problems, the way we take care of ours." The land offered by Smith, it was revealed, is near a section chosen by the town of Ulster for a refuse disposal project.

Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel indicated he was ready to propose that the city could operate a joint project with the town of Ulster providing some advantages to the latter, as well as solving the city's problem.

Among other proposals during random discussion of the problem, was the use of areas near the thruway where land had been taken for fill. One such area is off Route 209, and the other near the Esopus creek off Route 28. Both are in the city limits, but it was not known whether the land was available or whether other private lands would be involved.

Alderman Ryan asked, as the meeting opened, for a reading of the minutes of the March 15 session, and when they were read, noted that reference to a report from the city engineer on the refill plan, had been omitted. The correction was made.

Alderman Perry, during his statement opposing the project, read a letter from the Rev. Verdell Swett, of the Ponckhockie Congregational Church, which noted that the congregation at a recently called business meeting, voted against the proposed landfill project.

COPIES OF FIGURES from the department of engineering, distributed to aldermen at the start of the session showed a total preparations and equipment cost of $23,970 and a nine months operating cost of $10,635.

Largest equipment cost would be purchase of a unit known as a "bull clam" for the landfill operation at $17,190. Other figures were the clearing and grading of four acres, $400, erection of fence (optional) $3,500, landscaping (optional), $880, office building and equipment shed $600 each, and financing $400.

ESTIMATES on operation were a truck driver hauling cover at $3,220 a year, $2,415 for nine months, a shovel operator at $3,520 a year, $1,320 for 4½ months, fuel oil, $1,900, maintenance of equipment $800, 15,800 cubic yards of cover material $3,950, office expense $50, light and heat $100, and insecticides and rodent control $100.

Perry's figures given at the March 15 meeting, estimated a total cost of $82,026 for 11 items, including preparations, equipment and personnel, included $25,000 for purchase of the site, $18,000 for the purchase of Kingston Point Park, and $10,000 for placing the park in condition for use, bringing his total estimated cost to $135,026.

OFFER OF PROPERTY in the town of Ulster seemed to carry weight with some of the aldermen, who discussed the proposal while waiting out the committee recess, and it might have been a factor in keeping the proposal at least a vote away from action last night. It appeared, at least, to have opened the way for consideration of some other plan to satisfy fifth ward opposition.

Residents of the ward and Alderman Perry left the council chamber with the apparent feeling that failure of the proposal to come out of committee for a vote, was as final as a vote against it, and the alderman was congratulated by many in the audience for his fight against it.

suitable for a toll road, the department would recommend that it be constructed to follow Route 11.

As for the Long Island development, the authority reported, "further and more detailed revenue studies might well determine that this project could be supported as a toll facility."

In the light of the authority's report, it now will be up to the Legislature and the public works department to determine when, whether and how the proposed highways should be built.

ditions involved in my ward that call for vast study, extensive surveys and other items of engineering, which have been neglected in the particular project on which you gentlemen are to cast your votes."

THE ALDERMAN NOTED that he had previously given 42 reasons why it should be rejected, and he asked "that each alderman give the project due consideration in all respects, especially from the standpoint of economy."

His estimates, he said, "checked by an engineer," indicated that "the project would cost $135,026 to start and operate for a year." Proponents, he said estimated $33,617, a difference of $101,409." This, he charged, was "a staggering figure, when we remember that our taxpayers will have to foot the bill."

He continued: "It behooves each alderman to study figures as they are presented. In this case, it could be that they are from the same source that furnished estimates on enlarging our city incinerator. This body voted approval of $50,000 for the project. Then there was a request for $10,000 more. As matters stand, the city has only the semblance of a foundation, which is being covered at present with rubbish and fill at the dump in the 13th ward."

Tight Minutes

bing sound in the starboard turbine."

Steam power was shut off on the port shaft and a "creep" speed was applied using electrical power developed by the steam generators.

Cautiously the new submersible backed out into the stream, made a full turn and headed away. Then it was discovered the alarming noise was caused by the mere rubbing of a plate, something fixed simply and quickly.

At no time did the ship go off atomic power.

Wilkinson explained that the sound was startling because it could have meant such a serious thing as a bad blade in the steam turbine.

THE SKIPPER SAID the Nautilus has logged more than 3,000 miles, hundreds of them while submerged. He termed the ship's performance "revolutionary and amazing."

Wilkinson issued a prepared statement in conjunction with the news conference.

In his statement, Wilkinson said:

"During the course of operations to date, the Nautilus has got under way for operations nine separate times for a total of 319 hours and 32 minutes under way during which she had steamed over 3,000 miles.

"She has made a total of 69 dives and spent 92 hours submerged, steaming several hundred miles beneath the surface."

Hua Awaits

truding from the sea some 10 miles off the Huangchi peninsula. In 100 days ended about a month ago a few road graders and rockcrushers and several thousand soldiers-turned-workers cut roads straight up mountains, built defenses on both sides, put guns at the top and everywhere else they could be used, then built roads down the other side, all the while hemming in the few narrow beaches that lie between rocky cliffs.

ANY SEAWARD approach to this place is murder. Riding over these roads is like riding an Alpine roller coaster, putting great strain on the heart of the rider and the brakes of the jeep.

So fast were these roads and fortifications built that Matsu's scars are still fresh—you never saw so much new digging in six square miles in your life. Among this martial tracery are a few little farm fields and vegetable patches terraced on the steep slopes. The civilian population of the seven islands is given as 9,488 mostly fishermen. Col. Hua says civilians will not be evacuated.

Harriman, Republicans Compromise on Aid Feud

Albany, March 30 (AP) — Gov. leaders of the Legislature reached a compromise agreement today in their bitter feud over state aid to education.

A highly placed source told a reporter that an agreement had been made by a closed-door meeting this morning.

Harriman was reported to have won all but $1,500,000 of the five-million-dollar fund he had demanded for special classes.

The deal opened the way for the Legislature to adjourn on Saturday, under its terms, Harriman would sign a GOP "package" bill on state school aid.

IT WAS REPORTED reliably that the terms of the agreement called for the Republican majorities to vote on additional one million dollars in state aid for the education of non-English speaking children.

That would give Harriman a total of two million dollars out of the $3,500,000 that he originally sought.

In addition, it was reported that the Republicans would vote an aditional $500,000 for state aid to the education of mentally and physically handicapped children. That would give Harriman the full $1,500,000 he originally sought.

FOR HIS PART, Harriman was said to have agreed that the funds for special classes would be allocated statewide. However, it is expected that the bulk of the money would be spent in New York city. Harriman originally asked that all of the money go to the city.

The additional funds would be appropriated in a supplemental budget bill to be introduced in the closing hours of the session.

Even as the compromise was reached, the Republicans were preparing to jam their disputed rent control bill through the Legislature.

Security Council

noting that the council had warned Israel before against such raids, said this should be the "last time" for such a warning. In lobby conversations, French circles later indicated they want aid to Israel stopped if another such attack occurs.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of the United States said the Gaza raid was without justification. Like others, he said Israel's apparent policy of large-scale retaliations for small-scale Arab raids could not be condoned.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev blamed Middle East tension on the Turkish-Iraqi, Turkish-Pakistani and North Atlantic pacts. Lodge and Selim Sarper of Turkey replied that those pacts were made only to counteract danger from the Soviet bloc. The American delegate said the Communists seem to want to "gobble up everything in sight."

Paris has a population of almost 6½ million.

Miss Traubel to Star

New York, March 30 (AP)— Helen Traubel, former opera star, will have a starrring role in a forthcoming Broadway musical, "Pipe Dream." This was announced last night by Oscar Hammerstein II, who, with Richard Rodgers, is producing the show. Miss Traubel has had nightclub, concert, motion picture and television engagements since appearing at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Condition Is Serious

Chicago, March 30 (AP) — Col. Robert R. McCormick, 74, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, was seriously ill today in his farm home near suburban Wheaton. Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, McCormick's personal physician, said yesterday the colonel, who has been at his home since he left Wesley Memorial Hospital March 17, had "taken a turn for the worse," and that his condition was serious.

FLYING FIRE TRUCK—something different in fighting fires is the aim of the Piasecki Helicopter Corp. of Morton, Pa. As an artist has illustrated the idea above, a specially designed 'copter could reach burning planes downed on mountainsides, in swamplands, forests or other places inaccessible to wheeled equipment. Rescue workers would be lowered to the ground while the flying fire truck hovers over the fire spraying an extinguisher from its crane-like front. Flames would be kept away from the 'copter by its whirling rotors. The manufacturer says it could be used in fighting fires in upper stories of high buildings. Note truck bogged down in swamp.

Red Flotilla Attacked

Taipei, Formosa, March 30 (AP) —Nationalist planes today attacked a Red flotilla near the Matsus, sinking one wooden craft and damaging seven other ships, including three gunboats, the Chinese Air Force said. A communique did not give the size of the concentration, nor did it speculate whether it was bent on an invasion of any of the Matsu islands 100 miles northwest of Formosa. Communist shore guns and the gunboats opened up with heavy anti-aircraft fire but all planes returned safely, the communique said.

Handy Is Comfortable

Yonker, March 30 (AP)—W. C. Handy, noted Negro composer, was reported continuing to rest comfortably today at his home after becoming ill yesterday. Associates said the 81-year-old Handy had shown indications of a stroke but suffered no paralysis.

Tight Minutes

bing sound in the starboard turbine."

Steam power was shut off on the port shaft and a "creep" speed was applied using electrical power developed by the steam generators.

Cautiously the new submersible backed out into the stream, made a full turn and headed away. Then it was discovered the alarming noise was caused by the mere rubbing of a plate, something fixed simply and quickly.

At no time did the ship go off atomic power.

Wilkinson explained that the sound was startling because it could have meant such a serious thing as a bad blade in the steam turbine.

THE SKIPPER SAID the Nautilus has logged more than 3,000 miles, hundreds of them while submerged. He termed the ship's performance "revolutionary and amazing."

Wilkinson issued a prepared statement in conjunction with the news conference.

In his statement, Wilkinson said:

"During the course of operations to date, the Nautilus has got under way for operations nine separate times for a total of 319 hours and 32 minutes under way during which she had steamed over 3,000 miles.

"She has made a total of 69 dives and spent 92 hours submerged, steaming several hundred miles beneath the surface."

Hua Awaits

truding from the sea some 10 miles off the Huangchi peninsula. In 100 days ended about a month ago a few road graders and rockcrushers and several thousand soldiers-turned-workers cut roads straight up mountains, built defenses on both sides, put guns at the top and everywhere else they could be used, then built roads down the other side, all the while hemming in the few narrow beaches that lie between rocky cliffs.

ANY SEAWARD approach to this place is murder. Riding over these roads is like riding an Alpine roller coaster, putting great strain on the heart of the rider and the brakes of the jeep.

So fast were these roads and fortifications built that Matsu's scars are still fresh—you never saw so much new digging in six square miles in your life. Among this martial tracery are a few little farm fields and vegetable patches terraced on the steep slopes. The civilian population of the seven islands is given as 9,488 mostly fishermen. Col. Hua says civilians will not be evacuated.

Harriman, Republicans Compromise on Aid Feud

Albany, March 30 (AP) — Gov. leaders of the Legislature reached a compromise agreement today in their bitter feud over state aid to education.

A highly placed source told a reporter that an agreement had been made by a closed-door meeting this morning.

Harriman was reported to have won all but $1,500,000 of the five-million-dollar fund he had demanded for special classes.

The deal opened the way for the Legislature to adjourn on Saturday, under its terms, Harriman would sign a GOP "package" bill on state school aid.

IT WAS REPORTED reliably that the terms of the agreement called for the Republican majorities to vote on additional one million dollars in state aid for the education of non-English speaking children.

That would give Harriman a total of two million dollars out of the $3,500,000 that he originally sought.

In addition, it was reported that the Republicans would vote an aditional $500,000 for state aid to the education of mentally and physically handicapped children. That would give Harriman the full $1,500,000 he originally sought.

FOR HIS PART, Harriman was said to have agreed that the funds for special classes would be allocated statewide. However, it is expected that the bulk of the money would be spent in New York city. Harriman originally asked that all of the money go to the city.

The additional funds would be appropriated in a supplemental budget bill to be introduced in the closing hours of the session.

Even as the compromise was reached, the Republicans were preparing to jam their disputed rent control bill through the Legislature.

Security Council

noting that the council had warned Israel before against such raids, said this should be the "last time" for such a warning. In lobby conversations, French circles later indicated they want aid to Israel stopped if another such attack occurs.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of the United States said the Gaza raid was without justification. Like others, he said Israel's apparent policy of large-scale retaliations for small-scale Arab raids could not be condoned.

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev blamed Middle East tension on the Turkish-Iraqi, Turkish-Pakistani and North Atlantic pacts. Lodge and Selim Sarper of Turkey replied that those pacts were made only to counteract danger from the Soviet bloc. The American delegate said the Communists seem to want to "gobble up everything in sight."

Paris has a population of almost 6½ million.

Miss Traubel to Star

New York, March 30 (AP)— Helen Traubel, former opera star, will have a starrring role in a forthcoming Broadway musical, "Pipe Dream." This was announced last night by Oscar Hammerstein II, who, with Richard Rodgers, is producing the show. Miss Traubel has had nightclub, concert, motion picture and television engagements since appearing at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Condition Is Serious

Chicago, March 30 (AP) — Col. Robert R. McCormick, 74, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, was seriously ill today in his farm home near suburban Wheaton. Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen, McCormick's personal physician, said yesterday the colonel, who has been at his home since he left Wesley Memorial Hospital March 17, had "taken a turn for the worse," and that his condition was serious.

FLYING FIRE TRUCK—something different in fighting fires is the aim of the Piasecki Helicopter Corp. of Morton, Pa. As an artist has illustrated the idea above, a specially designed 'copter could reach burning planes downed on mountainsides, in swamplands, forests or other places inaccessible to wheeled equipment. Rescue workers would be lowered to the ground while the flying fire truck hovers over the fire spraying an extinguisher from its crane-like front. Flames would be kept away from the 'copter by its whirling rotors. The manufacturer says it could be used in fighting fires in upper stories of high buildings. Note truck bogged down in swamp.

Red Flotilla Attacked

Taipei, Formosa, March 30 (AP) —Nationalist planes today attacked a Red flotilla near the Matsus, sinking one wooden craft and damaging seven other ships, including three gunboats, the Chinese Air Force said. A communique did not give the size of the concentration, nor did it speculate whether it was bent on an invasion of any of the Matsu islands 100 miles northwest of Formosa. Communist shore guns and the gunboats opened up with heavy anti-aircraft fire but all planes returned safely, the communique said.

Handy Is Comfortable

Yonker, March 30 (AP)—W. C. Handy, noted Negro composer, was reported continuing to rest comfortably today at his home after becoming ill yesterday. Associates said the 81-year-old Handy had shown indications of a stroke but suffered no paralysis.

Emily C. Chadbourne Receives Decoration Of Legion of Honor

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Stone Ridge and Washington, D. C., was one of four persons to receive the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, one of France's most coveted decorations, at a brief ceremony at the French Embassy in Washington on March 21.

The decoration was bestowed upon Mrs. Chadbourne by French Ambassador Maurice Couve de Murville. It was in recognition of her service in promoting closer cultural and art interests between France and the United States as president of the Senate House Association of Kingston and a member of the governing board of the Chicago Art Institute.

Others who received the honor at the same ceremony were Mrs. Harry K. Hickey, for her services during and after World War 2 in behalf of American Relief for France; Andre de Limur, president of the Alliance Francaise, for his promotion of Franco-American relations, and Lt. Col. Clark Lawrence, USA, retired, for his services as architect on French government projects.

Area Woman Heads Salsburg Red Cross Volunteer Workers

Salzburg, Austria, March 30 — Mrs. Frances C. Nabbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crough, of Stone Acre, Olive Bridge, N. Y., recently has been named chairman of Red Cross volunteers in the Salzburg area. Her husband, Lt. Col. Philip M. Nabbe, M.C., is commanding officer of the 109th Field Hospital.

In her new position, Mrs. Nabbe will coordinate and develop Red Cross volunteer services for servicemen and their dependents in this area. Currently there are some 1,000 active Red Cross volunteers in the European theatre. The Red Cross hopes to double that number in the coming year and to otherwise extend the service provided.

In addition to the Gray Ladies who serve in military hospitals, staff aides and social welfare aides also are being trained to assist in Red Cross field offices. Instructors for dependent classes in home nursing, first aid and water safety are being certified, also.

Prior to her arrival in Europe Mrs. Nabbe has worked with the Red Cross in Harrisburg, Pa., Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island and Washington, D. C.

He Got the Point

Richmond, Va. (AP)—Karl Archibald, of London, can tell you that there is a lot of difference in the way the King's English is handled. Karl, who married a Richmond girl, was fixing up an apartment for use in the alternate years when they live in the United States. He needed some drawing pins and was amazed that he could not find them in a half-dozen stores he tried. "You're English," laughed the clerk in the seventh store "So am I. What you want is available anywhere, only they call them 'thumb tacks.'"

Area Woman Heads Salsburg Red Cross Volunteer Workers

Salzburg, Austria, March 30 — Mrs. Frances C. Nabbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crough, of Stone Acre, Olive Bridge, N. Y., recently has been named chairman of Red Cross volunteers in the Salzburg area. Her husband, Lt. Col. Philip M. Nabbe, M.C., is commanding officer of the 109th Field Hospital.

In her new position, Mrs. Nabbe will coordinate and develop Red Cross volunteer services for servicemen and their dependents in this area. Currently there are some 1,000 active Red Cross volunteers in the European theatre. The Red Cross hopes to double that number in the coming year and to otherwise extend the service provided.

In addition to the Gray Ladies who serve in military hospitals, staff aides and social welfare aides also are being trained to assist in Red Cross field offices. Instructors for dependent classes in home nursing, first aid and water safety are being certified, also.

Prior to her arrival in Europe Mrs. Nabbe has worked with the Red Cross in Harrisburg, Pa., Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island and Washington, D. C.

Richmond, Va. (AP)—Karl Archibald, of London, can tell you that there is a lot of difference in the way the King's English is handled. Karl, who married a Richmond girl, was fixing up an apartment for use in the alternate years when they live in the United States. He needed some drawing pins and was amazed that he could not find them in a half-dozen stores he tried. "You're English," laughed the clerk in the seventh store "So am I. What you want is available anywhere, only they call them 'thumb tacks.'"

Larry Bloom and Orchestra Will Play For Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary

Larry Bloom and his popular Michael Zarin orchestra from the Peacock Room of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York, long a favorite with local dancers, will play for the annual dance of the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary Saturday, April 16, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, it was announced today.

Mr. Bloom's orchestra has been coming to Kingston for the past six years appearing at the annual Kingston Hospital dances and is no stranger to local dance and music lovers.

Larry and his saxophone are still holding forth at the Waldorf-Astoria and is now enjoying much success as a songwriter. Two of his numbers already have been published and are due for recordings shortly. He also was recently accepted as a member of the American Society of Authors and Publishers (ASCAP).

Nick Kenny, New York Daily Mirror columnist, wrote of Mr. Bloom recently "Larry Bloom's new ballad I Found a New Love, sounds like a sure-fire recording material. Next time you visit Peacock Alley at the Waldorf Astoria, ask Michael Zarin, the fiddle playing maestro to dish up Mombonta, another of Larry's creations. Larry is one of Zarin's bandsmen and a capable arranger."

Appearing with Mr. Bloom at the Benedictine Auxiliary dance will be James Scotty, accordionist, one of the best in New York and who is constantly making recordings for major companies. He also appears frequently on television.

Freddy Jakels, pianist, made quite a hit recently when he was solo pianist at the swank Carnival room at the Sherry Netherlands Hotel.

Wynn Bossert, appearing on the drums, is the most demanded drummer in New York. His conception of dance and Latin American rhythms are considered outstanding. Also with the band is Bob Norman, bass and vocalist.

OF COURSE SAY "THANK YOU"

A reader tells me that I have been quoted as having said: "Never thank anyone for having been asked to dinner." She goes on to say, "It seems inconceivable to me that a well-bred person could go to anyone's house and not thank the host or hostess for their hospitality and I am sure you must have been misquoted. Will you please straighten me out on this?"

I am often misquoted, but seldom to such an extent as this. Of course you thank your host and hostess for a pleasant evening. It is true that ordinarily it is better manners to emphasize the hospitality of your hostess rather than the food, but when a hostess has done her own cooking and has remembered to provide something that she knows you like very much, it is polite to show appreciation by adding something about the dinner.

Invitation to Engaged Pair

Dear Mrs. Post: When sending a wedding invitation to an engaged couple and only the man is known to the bride and groom, how is the invitation correctly addressed? Could the invitation be addressed to him alone with her name included on the inside envelope?

Answer: Separate invitations in their inside envelopes, one addressed to Miss Smith and the other to Mr. Jones and both enclosed in one outside envelope, addressed to him, will be best.

Duties of Usher

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) My nineteen-year-old son has been asked to usher at his cousin's wedding. Never having acted in this capacity before, he is not sure what is expected of him at the church and afterwards at the reception. (2) Also, is it necessary that he give the bride a wedding present in view of the fact that he is a college student and has no income and we, his parents, are giving her a very lovely present?

Answer: (1) He offers his right arm to each lady as she arrives, asks whether she prefers to sit on the bride's side or the groom's, and seats her accordingly. He then takes his place with the other ushers in the processional. At the reception he makes himself useful by escorting the guests to the bride and bridegroom, helping them to food or beverages and seeing that no guests are left by themselves. (2) Your present could have his name added to yours and no further present would be expected.

Siena Cagers Impressive in 1st Round Win

Pine Plains Routs Kilowatts, 109-82

Those Siena College-trained Sickler Deliverymen established themselves as the team to beat by polishing off the Trabasso Titans of Poughkeepsie, 83-73, in last night's Kingston tournament feature at the municipal auditorium.

Manager Frank Keonig's warriors missed the morning line quotations by a point but this brought no great grief to Len Sickler, senior and junior, who envision their first post-season champion.

IN THE COMPANION GAME, Pine Plains Bombardiers (George Steutzle's new version) staged a blistering second half to rout Ready Kilowatts of Newburgh, 109-82. To the disappointment of nobody, Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski didn't show.

BROOKLYN-BORN Dick Whyte sparked Sickler's triumph with brilliant outside shooting. He finished with 23 points. But it was Long Tom Pottenburgh, the 6-foot-11 giant from Rhinebeck who actually turned the tide.

Trabassos led 14-6 early in the going and were still in contention until late in the second period when a series of Pottenburgh layups and tapins pulled the Deliverymen ahead to stay. They led 40-28 at the half and were never in danger. The contest grew exceedingly rough in its closing stages.

Pottenburgh and Joe Gunderson, this year's Siena captain, each canned 18 points. High scorer of the game was Johnny Cottrill, who unloaded 31 points, including 17 out of 22 foul tries for the Titans. Don Myers hooped 17.

THE NEW VERSION of the Bombardiers blistered the auditorium boards with a 72-point second half to run and hide from the Ready Kilowatts after a respectable first half (Bombardiers 37-Newburgh 35).

Six Bombardiers scored in double figures with Richie Moran canning 22, Don Sunderland 19, Van Kleeck 18, Bob Martin 16. Dom Franchini led Ready Kilowatts with 24.

Empire Diner of Kingston plays a second round game against Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie in Thursday's opener at 7:30 p. m. Cornwall faces Ketterson Motors at 8:30.

Valdes Rated Top Contender For Marciano

New York, March 30 (AP)—Increased activity among the top flight boxers have accounted for a host of changes in the April boxing ratings of Ring Magazine, released today.

The ratings advance Tommy Jackson of Far Rockaway, N. Y., who is on a winning streak, from sixth to fifth place in the heavyweight division. Earl Walls of Canada, on his draw with James J. Parker of Paterson, N. J., has dropped from fifth to sixth.

Jimmy Slade of New York has been eliminated from the top ten. Charles Norkus of Jersey City, N. J., who was ninth last month, is No. 10, while Parker was upped to ninth.

NINO VALDES of Cuba remains the leading challenger to Rocky Marciano's throne, although second-ranked Don Cockell of England, will get a title shot at the Brockton, Mass. champion May 16.

Willi Hoepner of Germany, who knocked out Gerhard Hecht to win the European light heavyweight crown, has jumped from ninth to fourth in this class. Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., has dropped a notch to sixth and Boardwalk Billy Smith of Atlantic City, N. J., fell one spot to eighth. Bob Satterfield of Chicago has moved up to seventh.

In the middleweight division, Tiberio Mitri of Italy, Willie Troy of Washington and Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., have dropped out of the first ten. They have been replaced by Eduard Lausse of Argentina, Johnny Sullivan of England and Bobby Dykes of Miami.

FORMER WELTERWEIGHT king Kid Gavilan of Cuba slipped to eighth after losing to Dykes. Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles has advanced from fifth to fourth and Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., victor over Johnny Bratton, has jumped from ninth to seventh.

In the lightweight class, Orlando Zuluetta of Cuba and Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., have traded places. Lopes fell to tenth with the Cuban advancing a peg to ninth.

There are only three southpaw pitchers on the St. Louis Cardinals spring roster—Harvey Haddix, Paul LaPalme and Luis Arroyo.

Alston Sees Newcombe And Campanella Keys To Dodger 1955 Hopes

Jacksonville, Fla., March 30 (AP)—Can Brooklyn bounce back and dethrone the New York Giants? The answer probably rests in the left hand of catcher Roy Campanella and the right arm of pitcher Don Newcombe.

"If those two fellows can come back, they can stimulate the rest of the club," said Manager Walter Alston, starting his second year as boss of the Brooks.

"Campanella has indicated he can swing a bat a lot better than last year when he was nursing that hand after his operation," Alston continued. "If anything, Campy is swinging too hard, trying to hit the ball into the stands. He seems to have plenty of his old power and appears ready to wipe out the memory of his poor year.

"ABOUT NEWCOMBE, we can't be sure yet. In the first 13 innings he pitched, he didn't walk a man. He has been throwing harder than he did last year when he was troubled off and on with a sore shoulder. We have started him off different, taking it a little slower. Maybe he tried too hard last year to get back in swing after his stay in the army."

Much has been written about Alston's failure to assert himself as a "take charge guy" in his freshman year. Some claimed he was too easy in his dealings with the players in sharp contrast to the driving tactics of Chuck Dressen, the man he followed.

"Some of you writers have said I was going to be tougher this year," Alston said the other day. "But I never said that. Remember, you fellows said it."

FINE SPRING performances by Don Zimmer (.291 at St. Paul) and Chico Fernandez (.282 at Montreal) resulted in many infield experiments. Zimmer, normally a shortstop, may open the season at second base instead of Junior Gilliam (.282) if he can hit. Gil Hodges (.304), second in homers and tied with teammate Duke Snider for runnerup in runs batted in, is the first baseman. Pee Wee Reese (.309) will be at short with Jackie Robinson (.311) probably settling down at third despite a strong challenge by Don Hoak (.245).

Robinson, of course, may wind up in left field again but Sandy Amoros (.274) will get a good shot at the job. He must polish up his fielding to hold the position. Snider (.341) is the center fielder and Carl Furillo (.294) in right. Bert Hamric, a lefthanded hitter who batted .350 at St. Paul, has a solid chance.

ALSTON CERTAINLY couldn't be blamed for the injuries that hampered Campanella last season or the appendicitis attack that sidelined Johnny Podres for a vital month of the campaign.

Although the Dodgers, favored to win in a romp, finished second to New York in '54, they were beaten by only five games. A sound Campanella and Newcombe could close that gap.

Karl Spooner, the rookie southpaw phenom who broke in with two successive shutouts and a total of 27 strikeouts late last season, has been bothered by a sore arm. However, the Dodger brass counts on the fastballing youngster to live up to his brilliant promise.

Improvement is expected from Carl Erskine who had trouble going the route last season, and Billy Loes.

Leo Willing but Finds No Takers For Trade to Bolster Champions

(By The Associated Press)

Early reports to the contrary, the world Champion New York Giants are not a stand-pat ball club. It just looks that way, says Manager Leo Durocher, because "nobody wants to trade with us."

About the only deal getting a good rumor rating with the Giants is one sending Frankie Baumholtz, Chicago Cubs outfielder, to the New Yorkers for some second line pitchers (Al Corwin, Al Worthington and George Spencer).

But what Leo wants is another pitcher and perhaps some infield support to stopgap second baseman Davey Williams' back miseries.

"THIS IS A GOOD CLUB," said Durocher, yesterday as the Giants broke camp to start the long trip to the Polo Grounds. "Man for man it's solid. If no one gets hurt, it's great.

"But I'd feel more secure if I could get a real good pitcher. Right now, though, I'm concerned about Williams. I dunno. I hope he's all right."

The pitcher Leo wants would be a fourth starter behind Sal ("he's my No. 1 guy.") Maglie, Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez.

It could be Jim Hearn may get a crack at the No. 4 spot after a disturbing 1954 season (8-8) when he was an undependable starter.

"RIGHT NOW, I'D have to go with Hearn," said Durocher. "It isn't only that he's throwing harder and getting the ball over, but his attitude has changed. He's paying attention to suggestions."

Hearn's progress and the return of Monte Irvin's batting eye share top billing in Durocher's appraisal of the spring's highlights. "With a one-two punch like Willie Mays and Irvin (now hitting .431)," mused Leo, "I might not need Dusty Rhodes as a pinch-hitter."

While Durocher began the homeward trip in a chipper mood, however, some other managers were having their troubles.

Eddie Stanky pulled Stan Musial out of the St. Louis Cardinals outfield and put him back on first base as the Red Birds belted Eddie Lopat and a New York Yankee "B" team 6-2. Stanky is looking for more punch at first, where Musial hit .365 in 1946 and .312 in 1947.

MANAGER LOU Boudreau of Kansas City got a new worry when Bobby Shantz, the hard luck guy, was felled on the mound by a line drive off the bat of rookie Earl Smith as Pittsburgh beat the Athletics 8-8. X-rays failed to show serious injury to the A's lefty, however. Seven home runs were hit in the game, with Frank Thomas swatting a two-run blast to win for the Pirates in the ninth.

Three Brooklyn Dodgers—Don Newcombe, Clem Labine and Don Zimmer— also were hit by batted and pitched balls, but they, too, escaped serious injury. The incidents occurred in pregame drills before the Brooks made four hits good for a 5-4 victory over Milwaukee. One was a first inning three-run homer by Duke Snider that wrecked rookie Humberto Robinson's shutout string of 12 innings.

ART FOWLER and Jim Pearce, allowed just three hits and catcher Ed Bailey hit a home run as the Cincinnati Redlegs beat Washington 5-1. It was Bailey, too, who started a three-run eighth with a single.

The Yanks' regulars knocked off Detroit 6-1 with Bob Turley making his first good showing of the spring. Mickey Mantle homered for New York.

Ernie Banks kept his bat in action, lining a run-scoring single and his third home run in two days, as the Cubs beat Cleveland 9-7.

Baltimore tripped Philadelphia 6-3 and the Chicago White Sox had 13 men left on base but still pulled out a 5-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox.

Siena Cagers Impressive in 1st Round Win

Pine Plains Routs Kilowatts, 109-82

Those Siena College-trained Sickler Deliverymen established themselves as the team to beat by polishing off the Trabasso Titans of Poughkeepsie, 83-73, in last night's Kingston tournament feature at the municipal auditorium.

Manager Frank Keonig's warriors missed the morning line quotations by a point but this brought no great grief to Len Sickler, senior and junior, who envision their first post-season champion.

IN THE COMPANION GAME, Pine Plains Bombardiers (George Steutzle's new version) staged a blistering second half to rout Ready Kilowatts of Newburgh, 109-82. To the disappointment of nobody, Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski didn't show.

BROOKLYN-BORN Dick Whyte sparked Sickler's triumph with brilliant outside shooting. He finished with 23 points. But it was Long Tom Pottenburgh, the 6-foot-11 giant from Rhinebeck who actually turned the tide.

Trabassos led 14-6 early in the going and were still in contention until late in the second period when a series of Pottenburgh layups and tapins pulled the Deliverymen ahead to stay. They led 40-28 at the half and were never in danger. The contest grew exceedingly rough in its closing stages.

Pottenburgh and Joe Gunderson, this year's Siena captain, each canned 18 points. High scorer of the game was Johnny Cottrill, who unloaded 31 points, including 17 out of 22 foul tries for the Titans. Don Myers hooped 17.

THE NEW VERSION of the Bombardiers blistered the auditorium boards with a 72-point second half to run and hide from the Ready Kilowatts after a respectable first half (Bombardiers 37-Newburgh 35).

Six Bombardiers scored in double figures with Richie Moran canning 22, Don Sunderland 19, Van Kleeck 18, Bob Martin 16. Dom Franchini led Ready Kilowatts with 24.

Empire Diner of Kingston plays a second round game against Lincoln Center of Poughkeepsie in Thursday's opener at 7:30 p. m. Cornwall faces Ketterson Motors at 8:30.

Valdes Rated Top Contender For Marciano

New York, March 30 (AP)—Increased activity among the top flight boxers have accounted for a host of changes in the April boxing ratings of Ring Magazine, released today.

The ratings advance Tommy Jackson of Far Rockaway, N. Y., who is on a winning streak, from sixth to fifth place in the heavyweight division. Earl Walls of Canada, on his draw with James J. Parker of Paterson, N. J., has dropped from fifth to sixth.

Jimmy Slade of New York has been eliminated from the top ten, Charles Norkus of Jersey City, N. J., who was ninth last month, is No. 10, while Parker was upped to ninth.

NINO VALDES of Cuba remains the leading challenger to Rocky Marciano's throne, although second-ranked Don Cockell of England, will get a title shot at the Brockton, Mass. champion May 16.

Willi Hoepner of Germany, who knocked out Gerhard Hecht to win the European light heavyweight crown, has jumped from ninth to fourth in this class. Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., has dropped a notch to sixth and Boardwalk Billy Smith of Atlantic City, N. J., fell one spot to eighth. Bob Satterfield of Chicago has moved up to seventh.

In the middleweight division, Tiberio Mitri of Italy, Willie Troy of Washington and Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., have dropped out of the first ten. They have been replaced by Eduard Lausse of Argentina, Johnny Sullivan of England and Bobby Dykes of Miami.

FORMER WELTERWEIGHT king Kid Gavilan of Cuba slipped to eighth after losing to Dykes. Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles has advanced from fifth to fourth and Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., victor over Johnny Bratton, has jumped from ninth to seventh.

In the lightweight class, Orlando Zuluetta of Cuba and Joey Lopes of Sacramento, Calif., have traded places. Lopes fell to tenth with the Cuban advancing a peg to ninth.

There are only three southpaw pitchers on the St. Louis Cardinals spring roster—Harvey Haddix, Paul LaPalme and Luis Arroyo.

Alston Sees Newcombe And Campanella Keys To Dodger 1955 Hopes

Jacksonville, Fla., March 30 (AP)—Can Brooklyn bounce back and dethrone the New York Giants? The answer probably rests in the left hand of catcher Roy Campanella and the right arm of pitcher Don Newcombe.

"If those two fellows can come back, they can stimulate the rest of the club," said Manager Walter Alston, starting his second year as boss of the Brooks.

"Campanella has indicated he can swing a bat a lot better than last year when he was nursing that hand after his operation," Alston continued. "If anything, Campy is swinging too hard, trying to hit the ball into the stands. He seems to have plenty of his old power and appears ready to wipe out the memory of his poor year.

"ABOUT NEWCOMBE, we can't be sure yet. In the first 13 innings he pitched, he didn't walk a man. He has been throwing harder than he did last year when he was troubled off and on with a sore shoulder. We have started him off different, taking it a little slower. Maybe he tried too hard last year to get back in swing after his stay in the army."

Much has been written about Alston's failure to assert himself as a "take charge guy" in his freshman year. Some claimed he was too easy in his dealings with the players in sharp contrast to the driving tactics of Chuck Dressen, the man he followed.

"Some of you writers have said I was going to be tougher this year," Alston said the other day. "But I never said that. Remember, you fellows said it."

FINE SPRING performances by Don Zimmer (.291 at St. Paul) and Chico Fernandez (.282 at Montreal) resulted in many infield experiments. Zimmer, normally a shortstop, may open the season at second base instead of Junior Gilliam (.282) if he can hit. Gil Hodges (.304), second in homers and tied with teammate Duke Snider for runnerup in runs batted in, is the first baseman. Pee Wee Reese (.309) will be at short with Jackie Robinson (.311) probably settling down at third despite a strong challenge by Don Hoak (.245).

Robinson, of course, may wind up in left field again but Sandy Amoros (.274) will get a good shot at the job. He must polish up his fielding to hold the position. Snider (.341) is the center fielder and Carl Furillo (.294) in right. Bert Hamric, a lefthanded hitter who batted .350 at St. Paul, has a solid chance.

ALSTON CERTAINLY couldn't be blamed for the injuries that hampered Campanella last season or the appendicitis attack that sidelined Johnny Pedres for a vital month of the campaign.

Although the Dodgers, favored to win in a romp, finished second to New York in '54, they were beaten by only five games. A sound Campanella and Newcombe could close that gap.

Karl Spooner, the rookie southpaw phenom who broke in with two successive shutouts and a total of 27 strikeouts late last season, has been bothered by a sore arm. However, the Dodger brass counts on the fastballing youngster to live up to his brilliant promise.

Improvement is expected from Carl Erskine who had trouble going the route last season, and Billy Loes.

Leo Willing but Finds No Takers For Trade to Bolster Champions

(By The Associated Press)

Early reports to the contrary, the world Champion New York Giants are not a stand-pat ball club. It just looks that way, says Manager Leo Durocher, because "nobody wants to trade with us."

About the only deal getting a good rumor rating with the Giants is one sending Frankie Baumholtz, Chicago Cubs outfielder, to the New Yorkers for some second line pitchers (Al Corwin, Al Worthington and George Spencer).

Record Entry of 556 Horses Posted for 30th Hambletonian

Goshen, March 30—A record total of 556 horses, 42 more than last year, is assured for the $200,000 five-day meeting opening August 1 at Good Time Park here, William H. Cane announced today. The 30th Hambletonian, with 68 crack three-year-olds eligible, tops the list of 22 stake entries for the annual Grand Circuit sulky session.

The $95,000 Hambletonian on August 3 now has both an outstanding star in Scott Frost, and an equally watched "sleeper" in Newport Mon. The former, first juvenile trotter to race a mile in two minutes, is spring book favorite for the Hambletonian. Also by Hoot Mon, who holds the record for the stake set at 2:00 in 1947, is Newport Mon. He is owned by Octave Blake, Grand Circuit prexy, and trained by Del Cameron, who won their first Hambletonian last year with Newport Dream.

Jackets Trip Milk Bar In Mild Upset, 74-63; Turcks, Skyline Win

Burris Sparks Jacket Victory

Yellow Jackets led all the way to upset the J&E Milk Bar, 74-63, in the feature game on last night's YMCA "B" League slate.

In other games, Turck's Insurance defeated the Profs, 57-48, and Skyline toppled Accord, 59-52.

SHARPSHOOTING Johnny Burris fired 31 points and Don Davis rimmed 20 as the Jackets took command in the early moments to lead 24-18 at the quarter and 38-32 at intermission time.

Harry La Forge hooped 27 points for the losers, with Frank Secreto hitting 14 and Walt Faurote 10. Jim Medley canned 12 for the Jackets.

TURCKS HELD a slim 24-23 edge over Profs at the break but finished with a strong fourth quarter to ice the contest.

Ronnie Marks dumped 14 to pace the winners. Bill Marks and John Turck hit a dozen apiece. John Thompson of the Profs had 16 and Jack Dawkins rimmed 15.

SKYLINE WAS in front all the way to stop Accord. Denny Lenehan paced Skyline with 18 points. Tom Stenson fired 17 and Jack Schrader hooped 14.

Ben Hilgers was top man for Accord with 16 points. Andy Andersen rimmed 12 and Phil Mortas had 10.

It said in this space about a year ago that a corking basketball tournament was in progress at the municipal auditorium. After looking over this year's field, we think the 1955 version is the best in local history. Andy Murphy has come up with a brilliant array of talent and the Kingston tournament is highly recommended basketball menu.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Among the nicer things that happened while we were sojourning in the southland:

Ellenville Shanahans appear to have nailed down the 1954-55 Hudson Valley League bowling pennant and it couldn't happen to a nicer bunch of guys. Sam Fisher, Tim Bilyou and Hamerin' Hank Kemmerer rounded out an impressive team.

Bo Gill did his usual masterful job in putting over the annual Newburgh Academy basketball dinner. The All-DUSO players, including Kingston's Skip Brodhead, received natty sweaters. Sugar Ray Beats Lombardo; Looks For More Action

Cincinnati, March 30 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the man who gave up dancing in an attempt to regain the world's middleweight boxing championship, says he is going to keep right on the comeback trail.

That was Robinson's word last night after he had won a split decision over Johnny Lombardo of Mt. Carmel, Pa., in a 10-round bout at the Cincinnati Garden before 5,124 paying customers. The fight was neither broadcast nor televised.

IT WAS THE THIRD bout for Robinson since he came out of retirement. He won one and lost one but there had been some doubt as to how serious his comeback attempt was in view of his failure to meet a commitment to battle Georgie Small in Boston three weeks ago. He claimed illness prevented that fight.

"If I have it, I will continue," Robinson said after last night's fight. "If I don't, I'll give up. This was the kind of a fight you have to have to find out what you can do."

He next meets Ted Olla in Milwaukee on April 14.

THROUGH THE EARLY rounds last night Robinson did not look good. But he came along late just when most of the ringsiders thought he would fade. Lombardo, weighing 153 pounds, took a slight lead in the first four rounds because of his aggressiveness. He scored heavily from the inside with his left hook, his best punch.

Robinson, nine pounds heavier but 10 years older than his opponent, seemed to be pacing himself. The 34-year-old ex-champ started to open up in the fifth round. He kept pounding Lombardo with short uppercuts and with an occasional right and his work then reflected something of what Robinson was once noted for: speed and accurate punching. He began to use his left uppercut to the Pennsylvanian's body and sharp jabs to the chin.

Robinson landed so many blows in the ninth that Lombardo got sick to his stomach at the end of the round.

The New Yorker said afterward he was tired.

When Carl (Bobo) Olson, world middleweight champion, was a young boy he wanted to become a jockey.

Record Entry of 556 Horses Posted for 30th Hambletonian

Goshen, March 30—A record total of 556 horses, 42 more than last year, is assured for the $200,000 five-day meeting opening August 1 at Good Time Park here, William H. Cane announced today. The 30th Hambletonian, with 68 crack three-year-olds eligible, tops the list of 22 stake entries for the annual Grand Circuit sulky session.

The $95,000 Hambletonian on August 3 now has both an outstanding star in Scott Frost, and an equally watched "sleeper" in Newport Mon. The former, first juvenile trotter to race a mile in two minutes, is spring book favorite for the Hambletonian. Also by Hoot Mon, who holds the record for the stake set at 2:00 in 1947, is Newport Mon. He is owned by Octave Blake, Grand Circuit prexy, and trained by Del Cameron, who won their first Hambletonian last year with Newport Dream.

It said in this space about a year ago that a corking basketball tournament was in progress at the municipal auditorium. After looking over this year's field, we think the 1955 version is the best in local history. Andy Murphy has come up with a brilliant array of talent and the Kingston tournament is highly recommended basketball menu.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Among the nicer things that happened while we were sojourning in the southland:

Ellenville Shanahans appear to have nailed down the 1954-55 Hudson Valley League bowling pennant and it couldn't happen to a nicer bunch of guys. Al Milliott in particular has been a solid bowling booster through the years. Frankie Greco has come a long way since the days he set pins at the old Colonial alleys on North Front street. Sam Fisher, Tim Bilyou and Hamerin' Hank Kemmerer rounded out an impressive team.

Bo Gill did his usual masterful job in putting over the annual Newburgh Academy basketball dinner. The All-DUSO players, including Kingston's Skip Brodhead, received natty sweaters. Nat Holman delivered an inspirational speech. But the highlight was the dramatic moment when Coach George S. "Lanky" Masterson was presented with a $1300 one and one-half carat diamond ring. The NFA coach, who piloted the Goldbacks out of the basketball wilderness to five DUSO championships in six years. The NFA coach was so overcome with emotion he was unable to speak. Later he issued a statement.

Which brings us to one G. Warren Kias, who came out of the prairie states in the late 1920s and piloted Kingston High to 15 DUSO basketball pennants. The day cannot be too far off when Kias will be retired to the athletic directorship as his sole duties, with possibly the track squad to play around with. Kingston High has fallen on lean years with respect to DUSO championships, but Kias' overall record is the most impressive in DUSO history. When the day comes, we sincerely hope the community will pay Kias the honor he richly deserves.

Lanky Dick Bezemer, who was a sensational high school player when he terminated his career at KHS, played a spectacular freshman season at Rollins College, the rising basketball power at Winter Park, Fla. The critics scoffed when we rated Bezemer the equal of Newburgh's glamorous Mickey Burkoski at the end of the 1953-54 campaign. Dick's spectacular development at Rollins would seem to justify the nice things we said about him at that time.

• Of Men and Mice:

Ronnie Scheffel will leave North Carolina State next June with a brilliant basketball season behind him. When the all-time KHS cage greats are listed, Ronnie's name will rank hight on the list. Who will ever forget the memorable performance he staged in that overtime thriller he turned in against Mont Pleasant several years ago in the first game of the intersectional series between KHS and mighty Mont Pleasant.

Joe Gunderman, Siena basketball captain, who played at the municipal auditorium last night, has enlisted in the Marines and will report next Oct. 1 at Quantico, Va., where he will attend Officers Candidate School. . . . The Milwaukee Hawks of the NBA are slated to take him in the pro cage draft, according to George Palmateer. . . . Richmond, Va. (AP)—The English visitor has departed and Mayor Thomas B. Bryan has resolved to keep his oratorical foot out of his mouth. His honor, introducing Michael Alcock of Richmond, Surrey, England, to a council meeting said: "Mr. Alcock has no business here."

Then, trying to be helpful when the surprised visitor arose to say a few words, the mayor interposed: "No one has asked you to talk." Bryan explained he just meant (1) Alcock wasn't on hand to ask for anything, and (2) Alcock wasn't obligated to make a speech unless he wanted to.

votes when people found him to be a sensitive, likeable but shy actor. His previous bad publicity stemmed from his too realistic performance as the brutish Stanley Kowalski of "Streetcar Named Desire."

AMONG THE GIRLS it's Judy Garland, born in a vaudeville trunk, versus Grace Kelly, born in a Philadelphia mansion. Miss Garland, a great child star, is Hollywood's heartbreak kid. An Oscar would climax an amazing Hollywood story, the kind of story sentimental Hollywood likes.

If she wins, Judy will become the first Oscar winner in history to hear the news in a maternity ward. She gave birth to a son just yesterday.

IN MISS KELLY'S FAVOR is a tremendous talent, a craftsmanship that most actresses don't acquire until middle career. She already is talked of as a young Bergman or Garbo. Academy voters have great respect for such talent.

Of the supporting actresses, the race is between Eva Marie Saint of "On The Waterfront" and Katy Jurado, the brilliant Mexican actress, who played Spencer Tracy's Indian wife in "Broken Lance."

The whole show will be telecast over NBC-TV from 10:30 (EST) until midnight.

The province of Ontario, Canada is larger than France and Spain combined, says the National Geographic Society.

War Speculation

alist bastion of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores.

THE NEWS CONFERENCE also dealt with these other matters:

Big Four conference — Eisenhower said he wanted to reiterate that the United States is ready to do anything to ease world tension. He added, however, that so far as any top level conference of the western powers with Russia is concerned there would be many dangers involved in holding a conference without a specific list of topics to be covered.

Reminded that Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday that preparation for a Big Four conference might take months, Eisenhower remarked that was not an easy matter to discuss.

Eisenhower also said there is the question of whether West Germany should be invited to the conference.

HOW, HE ASKED, could you talk about Germany unless Germany were represented? And if you brought in one country, should you bring in others, and where would you draw the line?

Paris agreements—The President said he wanted to express his gratification over ratification of the Paris agreements by both Italy and France. He said he couldn't possibly exaggerate in expressing his satisfaction. He is delighted, the President added.

Bipartisan talks—Noting that he is meeting at the White House today with Democratic and Republican leaders of the House and with Senate leaders of both parties tomorrow, the President said the discussions would deal with the world situation generally.

He added that the meetings were arranged, starting a couple of weeks ago, with no specific purpose in mind.

Six Prison Guards

render last January inadvertently did more harm than good.

"It's common talk among the inmates," the guards said, "that the four revolt ringleaders were promised concessions."

The group of citizens said at the time of the successful negotiations with the prisoners that no concessions or promises were made.

Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor and chairman of the citizens committee said last night the committee stands by that statement.

He added, however, that the committee undoubtedly will meet in the near future and issue a statement on the guards' comments.

The four ringleaders of the January revolt were: Bank robber and escape artist Teddy Green, cop killer Fritz Swenson, rapist and robber Joseph A. Flaherty and gunmen-robber Balben.

William V. Ward, national vice president of the State, County and Municipal Workers Union, said the six guards spoke as representatives of all the prison guards, totaling about 125.

Tour Is Reduced

Heidelberg, Germany, March 30 (AP)—The United States Army today reduced the maximum tour allowed for soldiers in Europe to four years. The previous limit was five years. Army headquarters announced yesterday the regular tour for Wacs in Europe had been cut from 36 to 24 months.

Movies Are Changed

Due to a last minute change in programs, movies advertised in the Community and Kingston Theatre ads tonight will not run today. Those being shown are Underwater at the Community and Battle Cry at the Kingston.

votes when people found him to be a sensitive, likeable but shy actor. His previous bad publicity stemmed from his too realistic performance as the brutish Stanley Kowalski of "Streetcar Named Desire."

AMONG THE GIRLS it's Judy Garland, born in a vaudeville trunk, versus Grace Kelly, born in a Philadelphia mansion. Miss Garland, a great child star, is Hollywood's heartbreak kid. An Oscar would climax an amazing Hollywood story, the kind of story sentimental Hollywood likes.

If she wins, Judy will become the first Oscar winner in history to hear the news in a maternity ward. She gave birth to a son just yesterday.

IN MISS KELLY'S FAVOR is a tremendous talent, a craftsmanship that most actresses don't acquire until middle career. She already is talked of as a young Bergman or Garbo. Academy voters have great respect for such talent.

Of the supporting actresses, the race is between Eva Marie Saint of "On The Waterfront" and Katy Jurado, the brilliant Mexican actress, who played Spencer Tracy's Indian wife in "Broken Lance."

The whole show will be telecast over NBC-TV from 10:30 (EST) until midnight.

THE NEWS CONFERENCE also dealt with these other matters:

Big Four conference — Eisenhower said he wanted to reiterate that the United States is ready to do anything to ease world tension. He added, however, that so far as any top level conference of the western powers with Russia is concerned there would be many dangers involved in holding a conference without a specific list of topics to be covered.

Reminded that Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday that preparation for a Big Four conference might take months, Eisenhower remarked that was not an easy matter to discuss.

Eisenhower also said there is the question of whether West Germany should be invited to the conference.

HOW, HE ASKED, could you talk about Germany unless Germany were represented? And if you brought in one country, should you bring in others, and where would you draw the line?

Paris agreements—The President said he wanted to express his gratification over ratification of the Paris agreements by both Italy and France. He said he couldn't possibly exaggerate in expressing his satisfaction. He is delighted, the President added.

Bipartisan talks—Noting that he is meeting at the White House today with Democratic and Republican leaders of the House and with Senate leaders of both parties tomorrow, the President said the discussions would deal with the world situation generally.

He added that the meetings were arranged, starting a couple of weeks ago, with no specific purpose in mind.

Six Prison Guards

render last January inadvertently did more harm than good.

"It's common talk among the inmates," the guards said, "that the four revolt ringleaders were promised concessions."

The group of citizens said at the time of the successful negotiations with the prisoners that no concessions or promises were made.

Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor and chairman of the citizens committee said last night the committee stands by that statement.

He added, however, that the committee undoubtedly will meet in the near future and issue a statement on the guards' comments.

The four ringleaders of the January revolt were: Bank robber and escape artist Teddy Green, cop killer Fritz Swenson, rapist and robber Joseph A. Flaherty and gunmen-robber Balben.

William V. Ward, national vice president of the State, County and Municipal Workers Union, said the six guards spoke as representatives of all the prison guards, totaling about 125.

Tour Is Reduced

Heidelberg, Germany, March 30 (AP)—The United States Army today reduced the maximum tour allowed for soldiers in Europe to four years. The previous limit was five years. Army headquarters announced yesterday the regular tour for Wacs in Europe had been cut from 36 to 24 months.

Plattekill Plans Naming Roads

Councilman Bill Doolittle and Andrew Montrola have been named by Supervisor Eber Coy of Town of Plattekill to furnish names of all town roads in the township.

Residents will have an opportunity to check on names of roads by attending the regular meeting of the town board on Wednesday, April 13 Councilman Doolittle said.

MORE STREET signs will be erected shortly according to the supervisor and it is planned that this will be done over a two-year period.

Councilman Doolittle is covering Modena and Plattekill and welcomes all interested taxpayer's suggestion in the naming of existing roads. The councilman's desire for citizen cooperation is to eliminate any dissatisfaction and criticisms.

The Clintondale area is being covered by Councilman Montrola.

HISTORY REPEATS itself, with some variations attributable to changing times and the town board's progressive step in having all roads identified is reminded of a similar passage in Plattekill hitory.

For it is recalled that in those early and not-too-early days there were no "publick" roads, but trails and cartpaths winding across private property. It was property which was fenced and walled, to prevent the straying of livestock, and hence these ways were closed by means of gates and bars which had to be opened and closed as travelers passed.

IT IS RECALLED that this state of affairs continued for a good many years until some one, or some group became highly irked by it all and decided to do something about it.

A hearing or "toun-meeting" in Marlborough, brought the matter to a conclusion, under date of 1772 when the first road into Plattekill from Marlborough was laid out. This is "Breakneck" road, also identified as Plattekill Turnpike and Huckleberry Turnpike.

It's not apparent from records that the world "Breackneck" or "Plattekill" or "Huckleberry" entered into the discourse. A "hie-way" was laid out by which huckleberry fruit farmers, woodsmen and farmers could get to the Hudson river might pass.

HOW THIS town road or any other town road was identified no one truly knows. All that can be said is that people in the olden days were satisfied to call pretty near every road in the township just plain old Plattekill roads or turnpikes.

The two members of the road naming committee do not have too much to go by, therefore taxpayers assistance will be appreciated, according to Councilman Doolittle.

Hull Condition Same

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The condition of Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, was reported "essentially unchanged" today at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Hull, 83, has been a patient at the hospital since he suffered a stroke Saturday. A spokesman said Hull remained conscious and was resting comfortably but was still in critical condition. A slight improvement was reported yesterday.

Indictments Are Reported By March Grand Jury

Six open bills, eight sealed indictments and one dismissal was reported to Supreme Court Justice Kenneth MacAffer this morning by the grand jury in attendance at the March term of court.

None of the defendants was arraigned and all indictments were transferred to County Court for further action.

The grand jury recommended an electric system be installed between the grand jury room and the district attorney's office to summon the district attorney to the grand jury room when needed. It was also recommended an inspection be made by the fire officials of the Kingston fire department relative to the fire hazzard in the grand jury room on the third floor of the court house and that attention be given to a dangerous condition on the stairway leading to the grand jury room. A steep stairway leads past a window through which a person might fall in the event of an accident on the stairs.

OPEN INDICTMENTS reported were:

The People vs. Michael Burgamir, 65, of Maple Hill, charged with violation of Section 1897, Sub. 6 of the penal law, illegal possession of a gun.

The People vs. Conrad Charles Tubbs, 37, Highland, forgery, second degree.

The People vs. Grover Harry Tyler, 30, Ellenville, charged with violation of Section 931.

The People vs. Clayton Kenneth Oldenburg, 26, of Newport, Maine, arrested at Ellenville for grand larceny, first degree, for the taking of a car.

The People vs. Raymond Francis Rogers, 22, town of Rochester, burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry.

The People vs. Raymond Avery, Kingston, forgery, second degree.

NO BILL was returned in the caes of The People vs. Mortimer George France, burglary, third degree and unlawful entry, and he was discharged from custody.

All of the open indictments were transferred by order of the court to County Court for arraignment and further disposition. Bench warrants were ordered in the cases where sealed bills were returned.

Members of the grand jury was discharged from further service.

Plattekill Plans Naming Roads

Councilman Bill Doolittle and Andrew Montrola have been named by Supervisor Eber Coy of Town of Plattekill to furnish names of all town roads in the township.

Residents will have an opportunity to check on names of roads by attending the regular meeting of the town board on Wednesday, April 13 Councilman Doolittle said.

MORE STREET signs will be erected shortly according to the supervisor and it is planned that this will be done over a two-year period.

Councilman Doolittle is covering Modena and Plattekill and welcomes all interested taxpayer's suggestion in the naming of existing roads. The councilman's desire for citizen cooperation is to eliminate any dissatisfaction and criticisms.

The Clintondale area is being covered by Councilman Montrola.

HISTORY REPEATS itself, with some variations attributable to changing times and the town board's progressive step in having all roads identified is reminded of a similar passage in Plattekill hitory.

For it is recalled that in those early and not-too-early days there were no "publick" roads, but trails and cartpaths winding across private property. It was property which was fenced and walled, to prevent the straying of livestock, and hence these ways were closed by means of gates and bars which had to be opened and closed as travelers passed.

IT IS RECALLED that this state of affairs continued for a good many years until some one, or some group became highly irked by it all and decided to do something about it.

A hearing or "toun-meeting" in Marlborough, brought the matter to a conclusion, under date of 1772 when the first road into Plattekill from Marlborough was laid out. This is "Breakneck" road, also identified as Plattekill Turnpike and Huckleberry Turnpike.

It's not apparent from records that the world "Breackneck" or "Plattekill" or "Huckleberry" entered into the discourse. A "hie-way" was laid out by which huckleberry fruit farmers, woodsmen and farmers could get to the Hudson river might pass.

HOW THIS town road or any other town road was identified no one truly knows. All that can be said is that people in the olden days were satisfied to call pretty near every road in the township just plain old Plattekill roads or turnpikes.

The two members of the road naming committee do not have too much to go by, therefore taxpayers assistance will be appreciated, according to Councilman Doolittle.

Hull Condition Same

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The condition of Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, was reported "essentially unchanged" today at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Hull, 83, has been a patient at the hospital since he suffered a stroke Saturday. A spokesman said Hull remained conscious and was resting comfortably but was still in critical condition. A slight improvement was reported yesterday.

Indictments Are Reported By March Grand Jury

Six open bills, eight sealed indictments and one dismissal was reported to Supreme Court Justice Kenneth MacAffer this morning by the grand jury in attendance at the March term of court.

None of the defendants was arraigned and all indictments were transferred to County Court for further action.

The grand jury recommended an electric system be installed between the grand jury room and the district attorney's office to summon the district attorney to the grand jury room when needed. It was also recommended an inspection be made by the fire officials of the Kingston fire department relative to the fire hazzard in the grand jury room on the third floor of the court house and that attention be given to a dangerous condition on the stairway leading to the grand jury room. A steep stairway leads past a window through which a person might fall in the event of an accident on the stairs.

OPEN INDICTMENTS reported were:

The People vs. Michael Burgamir, 65, of Maple Hill, charged with violation of Section 1897, Sub. 6 of the penal law, illegal possession of a gun.

The People vs. Conrad Charles Tubbs, 37, Highland, forgery, second degree.

The People vs. Grover Harry Tyler, 30, Ellenville, charged with violation of Section 931.

The People vs. Clayton Kenneth Oldenburg, 26, of Newport, Maine, arrested at Ellenville for grand larceny, first degree, for the taking of a car.

The People vs. Raymond Francis Rogers, 22, town of Rochester, burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry.

The People vs. Raymond Avery, Kingston, forgery, second degree.

NO BILL was returned in the caes of The People vs. Mortimer George France, burglary, third degree and unlawful entry, and he was discharged from custody.

All of the open indictments were transferred by order of the court to County Court for arraignment and further disposition. Bench warrants were ordered in the cases where sealed bills were returned.

Members of the grand jury was discharged from further service.
